THE CORNHUSKER

Come a runnin' boys; Don't you hear that noise,
Like the thunder in the sky
How it rolls along in a good old song
From the sons of Nebraska
Now it's coming near with a rising cheer
That will sweep all foes away
So with all our vim. We are bound to win
And we're going to win today.

Chorus

For Nebraska and the scarlet
For Nebraska and the cream
Tho' they go thru many a battle
Our colors still are seen.
So in contest and vict'ry
We will wave them for the team
And 'twill always stir a cornhusker
The old Scarlet and the Cream.

DEAR OLD NEBRASKA U

There is no place like Nebraska
Dear old Nebraska U,
Where the girls are the fairest,
The boys are the squarest
Of any old school that I knew.
There is no place like Nebraska
Where they're all true blue,
We'll all stick together
In all kinds of weather
For dear old Nebraska U.

*Harper coach 1915-17. Rockne coach 1918 to present.

The genius of Rockne — thousands have heard the words but few understand the greatness of the phrase. Behind the famous Notre Dame mentor, however, there stands a monument of achievement — victory.

But even in triumph the great have been known to fall.

Such is the history of the Notre Dame-Nebraska conflicts starting back in 1915 and renewed today on Memorial field. During the Rockne regime the proud Hoosiers have piled up an unbelievable string of sixty-two victories in seventy-one games, five battles resulting in tie contests. Two of the Irish five defeats can be traced to Nebraska, and one each to Iowa and the Army. (Nebraska won two games and lost one while Jesse Harper was head coach at the South Bend institution.)

In 1919 and 1920 Notre Dame went through the entire season without a defeat, humbling the Cornhuskers 14 to 9 and 16 to 7. Then with a mark of 23 consecutive wins, Gordon Locke and the Devines of Iowa stepped into the picture giving the Hawkeyes a narrow 14 to 9 victory.

Undaunted Rockne again molded together a near-perfect machine, the blue-clad athletes sweeping everything before them — until they met Nebraska; the Huskers crashing and tearing through for a thrilling 14 to 6 win.

Again in 1923 the Indianians invaded the Scarlet stronghold with an untarnished record but again Rockne had failed to reckon the strength of Dawson's human avalanche and Nebraska emerged victorious by a 14 to 7 margin.

Today Rockne holds the edge, Notre Dame having won five of the ten battles staged, Nebraska taking four while one was a scoreless tie. But let us go back and review the pages of the past with its Bergmans, Gippes, Hartleys and Nobles.

The initial combat between the two schools was waged in 1915 between Jesse Harper's band of speedsters and "Jumbo" Stiehm's Scarlet striped gridmen, led by the valiant Dick Rutherford and brought into the limelight by the brilliant Chamberlain, the latter one of the greatest ends of all time.

Eight thousand rooters were in the stands at game time, a record crowd those days, when Referee Eckersall blew his whistle for play. The Irish immediately assumed the offensive crossing the Husker line in the first seven minutes of play. "Dutch" Bergman's 40 yard run, line plunges by Bachman and Cofall carried the oval to the Nebraska 10 yard line from where Bergman smashed thru on an end run. The try for point failed.

Immediately following the next kick-off Chamberlain uncorked a 37 yard flip to Ted Riddell and a moment later Chammie tore thru the remaining 20 yards for a touchdown tying the score. "Big Tim" Corey put the home clan to the front with a successful kick from placement.

A blocked punt and a recovery by Guard Fitzgerald and Cofall's plunging tactics gave Harper's men a 13 to 7 lead at the half.

In the third period Stiehm's proteges broke loose with a sensational aerial attack that knotted the count at 13 all. Corey's 20 yard throw to Chamberlain and Caley's 24 yard heave to the big Husker end did the business. Chamberlain was tackled fiercely by Cofall and hurled into the end-zone fence but remained in the game. Corey's kick was wild.

Two more passes, one a 19 yard flip to Reese and the other a 30 yard toss to Ted Riddell scored the third Nebraska touchdown, Corey kicking goal.

The stands were thrown into a frenzy a few minutes later when Phelan's pass to Cofall netted 38 yards while Bergman's short sprint resulted in a touchdown. With a chance to tie the score Coach Harper sent in Miller, a substitute fullback, to kick goal. Miller missed and the Huskers had chalked up one of the greatest victories in Nebraska pigskin history. The final score stood, Nebraska 20, Notre Dame 19.

In 1916 however the Huskers were unable to cope with the brilliant Irish attack, assuming the defensive throughout most of the skirmish, Notre Dame winning handily 20 to 0. Bergman's 42 yard run gave the invaders a touchdown in the first quarter which was all the scoring in the opening half. A Nebraska fumble on the Husker 17 yard mark was turned into a touchdown in the third period when Baujan recovered and raced across the final chalk line. The last marker came in the fourth stanza on a beautiful pass, Miller to Bergman, the latter skirting the entire Nebraska team for a 55 yard gain. The outstanding stars Bachmon, present Kansas Aggie coach, Captain Cofall, Coughlin, Bergman, Rydzewski and Miller for Notre Dame while Captain Corey, Caley, Dobson, Wilder and Shaw shone out best for the red-jerseyed athletes.

Captain Ed. Shaw's aggregation of ball luggers was the second Nebraska team to trounce the highly touted South Benders, Nebraska copping the third clash between the two schools by a 7 to 0 margin. A triple pass, Cook to Schellenberg to Dusty Rhodes took the ball to the Irish three yard line, Hugo Otoupalik, present director of athletics at Iowa State college, driving through on two attempts. Johnny Cook, Riddell, Rhodes, Shaw and Schellenberg starred for the winners while Captain Phalen, Gipp, Bahan, Hayes and Miller were the bright spots in the Rockne attack.

The S. A. T. C. skirmish in 1918 settled nothing, the tussle ending in a scoreless tie. Paul Dobson's punting and the excellent line work of Wade Munn and Captain Hubka featured for the Huskers. Bahan carried the ball over for Notre Dame in the first period with a 20 yard run but the play was called back for a penalty and the Irish never threatened seriously thereafter. Gipp, Barry, Kirk, Crowley, Captain Bahan and the Andersons were the Notre Dame sensations.

Nebraska grid fans will long remember the 14 to 9 defeat in 1919 for it was on the opening play that the Indianians startled the spectators with a bagfull of trickery. Gipp took the kick-off and started toward the sidelines. Unnoticed he passed the ball backward into the waiting hands of Bergman, who snatched the oval and raced down the opposite side of the field, a full 97 yards for a touchdown.

A poor punt by Gipp gave the Huskers the ball on the Notre Dame 19 yard line late in the second period, Wright scoring on an off-tackle play. Dobson's field goal from the 43 yard line in the fourth canto were the only other Nebraska scores.

Notre Dame accounted for their final marker in the third quarter when the brilliant passing combination of Gipp to Kirk carried the oval 99 yards and over on four flips. Roy Lyman, Bill Day, Fred Dale, Floyd Wright and Captain Dobson performed the best for the Huskers with Gipp, Bergman, Bahan, Degree, and Kirk showing up well for the winners.

Rockne's men repeated in 1920 with a 16 to 7 victory scoring in the opening quarter when Weller's punt was blocked and recovered by Nebraska behind the goal line for a safety. The Huskers went into the lead however when Hubka slashed the Irish forwards for two gains after the ball had been carried within scoring distance on a 20 yard pass by Newman to Swanson.

The atmosphere was full of footballs in the second quarter, Notre Dame's passing attack completely baffling the bewildered Nebraska players. A 41 yard toss and a 20 yard pass, both Gipp to Eddie Anderson and Brandy's short spurt put Rockne's men out in front 9-7.

The third quarter was uneventful but Gipp's pass to Barry and the former's 6 yard run for a touchdown wound up the scoring for the afternoon. Gipp, Kiley, Anderson, Castner and Brandy were the most consistent performers for the winners while Hartley, Day, Pucilik, Swanson, Wright and Dale were the headliners in the Scarlet attack.

The seventh battle between the Cornhuskers and Irish was staged on the South Send field with Notre Dame again winning, this time a narrow 7 to 0 score.

Lewellen's fumble in the second chapter was recovered by Eddie Anderson on the Husker 30 yard line. Line plunges by Morhart, Wynne and Castner carried the ball to the six yard line. Nebraska held, but a five yard penalty placed the oval on the one yard mark, Morhart crashing thru on the final down. Lyman, Swanson, Pucilik, Bergquist, Scherer, Weller, Lewellen, Noble and Wright were in the Nebraska lineup while Kiley, Anderson, Morhart, Castner and Wynne accounted for most of Rockne's yardage.

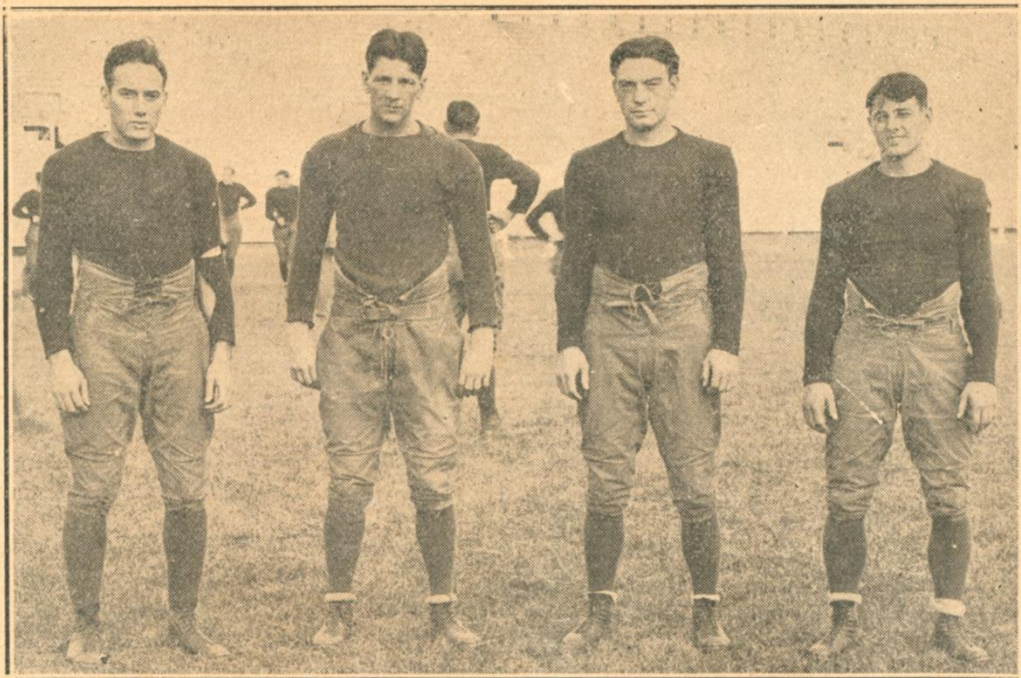

"Chick" Hartley's huskies were not given much consideration before the Husker-Irish tilt in 1922 but the critics had failed to reckon the abilities of one, Dave Noble, 190 pound, 10 second Nebraska back-field flash. Hartley and Noble both scored touchdowns and Nebraska won 14-6.

Nebraska took the ball from their own 47 yard line straight down the field, only to lose the oval on downs on the one-inch line. Degree's punt was good for a full 75 yards but Nebraska again carried the ball down the field, drives by Hartley and Noble featuring, the Husker captain scoring on a center smash. The final marker came later in the second quarter when Hartley passed from the Notre Dame 38 yard line to Noble who raced 26 yards for a touchdown.

Two passes, one a 24 yard heave Layden to Vergara and the other 38 yard flip to Miller accounted for the only Irish score. The game marked the beginning of the great careers of Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller and Layden—later christened the "Four Horsemen."

Dave Noble was again the potent factor in the Husker triumph of 1923 when Rockne's men bowed down to a 14 to 7 count. The "Moose's" 24 yard run for a touchdown in the first quarter and his dash across the chalkline in the final period with Layden on his back will long be remembered by Nebraska followers.

It was in this game that Choppy Rhodes grabbed up a Notre Dame fumble and raced nearly 80 yards down the sidelines only to lose the ball when Crowe, present Notre Dame captain, ran him down within the five yard mark. Rhodes fumbled and Notre Dame recovered for a touchback. It was Nebraska's second straight win over the South Benders, a feat that no other team in the country has yet accomplished.

The "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame" (Layden, Miller, Crowley and Stuhldreher) swept the Cornhuskers by the wayside last year at South Bend, Rockne getting sweet revenge for his previous defeats. The Huskers were forced to accept a 34 to 6 humiliation altho Captain Ed Weir's play was outstanding throughout the slaughter.

Nebraska scored first when Wostoupal recovered Layden's fumble and Myers rammed thru. Rockne immediately sent in his first team and then the fireworks started.

A 32 yard pass Stuhldreher to Crowley and two off-tackle drives by Layden gave the Irish first life. Don Miller's 10 yard dash accounted for the other just before half time.

Miller's 20 and 19 yard sprints scored another while Stuhldreher's 70 yard toss to Crowley netted the fourth touchdown. Layden's line plunges chalked up the final tallies in the fourth period.

Notre Dame followed the Husker victory with wins over Northwestern, Carnegie Tech and Stanford. The 27 to 10 victory over the Californians gave the Hoosiers the national championship which was truly a tribute to Rockne's greatness.

This sketch shows the front elevation of the auditorium. The building will face north and south. A sharp falling away of the ground makes possible a full lower floor where dressing rooms, lockers, handball courts, wrestling and boxing rooms will be located. Space is also provided for a swimming pool. The main floor can be used for public meetings, basketball games, convocations, commencement and university parties. It will accommodate 1,500 couples of dancers. It will seat 11,000.

This Building will be completed before the

For those who want a graphic account of the game we have prepared 4 grids in order that they may chart the game by quarters. Below are a few conventional signs to be used. The solid black squares represent the first-downs for the opposite team each succeeding square represents a down. Likewise the solid circles and circles represent downs for the home team. Remember you chart the ball as it tranverses from one end of the field to the other (the yards gained or lost) not as it is carried parrallel to the grid lines. The chart shows the progress down the field rather than position on the field.

High Spots in Cornhusker Grid-Iron History

Football at the University of Nebraska had its birth in 1890. During the first and second seasons, the sport at Nebraska was in the making, but in 1892 the Cornhuskers broke into the record with a performance genuinely worth while. Illinois university, an older institution than Nebraska, sent its pigskin warriors to the Missouri valley section and was forced to wallow in Nebraska dust. The Illini, to be exact, finished on the losing end of a 6 to 0 score.

And then in 1893, Nebraska, after taking two defeats in as many years in the annual game with Iowa, neatly drubbed the Hawkeyes in the Thanksgiving day fray on an Omaha field. George A. Flippin, colored halfback, now a practicing physician at Stromsburg, Neb., and "Little" Yont, mate of Flippin in the back field, were the stellar performers in that frenzied struggle for gridiron supremacy. Flippin's terrific line plunging and Yont's flashy sprints around the Iowa wings turned the tide in Nebraska's favor.

Won Title of Valley League

Inspired by the triumph over the Hawkeyes, Nebraska blossomed forth in 1894 with a championship aggregation. Titular honors in the old Missouri Valley league were at stake when Nebraska lined up against Iowa in the Turkey day conflict at Omaha. Nebraska's response was a crushing defeat of the Hawkeye horde. Once again, Flippin and Yont were the outstanding stars of the Nebraska lineup, the Nebraskans battering their way to a 34 to 0 victory.

The season of 1895 was a drab affair from a Nebraska standpoint, the Cornhuskers losing to Kansas in a bitterly contested battle at the old M street ball park. The Kansas victory established the Jayhawkers as valley champions for that year. The Jayhawkers repeated in 1896, trimming Nebraska on K. U. soil. Incidentally, that defeat of Nebraska in '96 was the Jayhawkers final victory over the Cornhuskers on the Lawrence gridiron.

Nebraska Took Revenge

Revenge is especially sweet in football and Nebraska took it in good measure at K. U.'s expense by trouncing Kansas in 1897 and repeating the following year. The campaign of '99, chiefly because of incompetent coaching, was a fizzle at Nebraska, but Booth came from Princeton in 1900 and the Cornhuskers, under his coaching, stormed the heights of football fame.

The Nebraska-Minnesota combat of '00 is a tradition in the Cornhusker camp. The gigantic Gophers, undefeated in the "Big Nine" circle, invaded Lincoln cockily confident of smothering Coach Booth's proteges. Two goals from the field, kicked during the first half, netted Minnesota a substantial lead. Two touchdowns were added to the Gopher total, but even then the Huskers were not dismayed. A brilliant Nebraska rally counted two touchdowns, the score standing 20 to 12 when the final whistle blew.

Booth's Cornhuskers were Valley champions in 1900 and charged to another title in 1901. The final game of the latter season was staged on the Lincoln field, with the redoubtable Haskell Redskins as the Cornhuskers' opponents.

The season of 1902 was even more successful from a Cornhusker standpoint; it was the high-water mark in Cornhusker history. The Huskers conquered every foe in the Valley region, took revenge on the Gophers at Minneapolis, Halfback Johnny Bender crossing the Minnesota goal for the only touchdown of the day, and rounded out the campaign with a smashing triumph over Northwestern — the second "Big Nine" team to take Nebraska's dust that year. Nebraska's goal line was uncrossed in 1902. In fact, no opponent scored a single point.

Huskers Conquered Illinois

Nebraska's contribution in '03 was still another all-triumphant year. Illinois sent its team to Lincoln for the Thanksgiving day encounter. Huskers and Illini battled without a score during the first half, but Nebraska turned in three touchdowns the final half, drubbing Illinois, 16 to 0. It was a thrilling rally on Nebraska's part, with "Bill" Wilson, an end shifted to halfback, carrying the oval on a succession of line plunges which tore the Illinois forward wall to shreds.

The Nebraska-Kansas game of 1903 was another memorable combat. The Cornhuskers fell victims to an attack of overconfidence and were outplayed by a decisive margin three-fourths of the game.

Bender Did the Business

The Jayhawkers persistently marched down the field to within a few yards of Nebraska's goal — a few inches on one occasion — but lacked the scoring punch in the crises and persistently surrendered the ball on downs. The tide turned in Nebraska's favor when Bender broke loose, after wiggling through the K. U. line, and sprinted seventy yards to the only touchdown of the day.

Illinois sent its teams back to Lincoln for Thanksgiving day games in 1904 and 1906, the Urbana warriors meeting defeat in both efforts to take Nebraska's measure. The '04 battle was a thriller beyond comparison. Bender for Nebraska and Rothgeb for Illinois were the most spectacular performers in that pulse-exciting conflict, Bender once faking a center buck and then skirting Rothgeb's end for seventy yards and a touchdown. Rothgeb, rated as the fastest end in the middle west, pursued Bender all the way down the field but the Nebraska star had speed to spare and outfooted Rothgeb in the race to the goal. Nebraska won that game, three touchdowns to two.

Huskers in a Slump

A distressing slump hit the Huskers of 1906, the first year of the forward pass, but Nebraska came back into its own in 1907, with "King" Cole as its coach, and annexed championship honors in the Missouri Valley conference — the first year of that organization.

Kansas, after four successive defeats by Nebraska in as many seasons, enjoyed two years of revenge in 1908 and 1909, drubbing the Huskers in '08 at M street park and repeating the process in '09 on Nebraska field. Tommy Johnson's spectacular return of a punt defeated Nebraska in '09, the K. U. quarterback running sixty yards during the three final minutes of play and winning the game, 6 to 0.

Cole's Cornhuskers cleaned up all Valley opponents in 1910, the Nebraska season having its climax on Thanksgiving day, when the Huskers reeled off a total of more than 100 points at the expense of the Haskell Reds.

Then Came "Jumbo" Steihm

Cole passed out of the picture when the Valley conference adopted the all-year coaching rule, but the former Michigan tackle had built a powerful aggregation of Cornhusker footballers and the late "Jumbo" Steihm, stepping into the Nebraska coachship, inherited a team of ten veterans, every one a first-string regular.

Stiehm had little trouble in piloting the Huskers to the Valley title in 1911 and pitted his proteges against Yost's Michigan Wolverines in the windup combat of the year. The Huskers outyarded and outdowned the Wolverines three to one in that game, but were victims of an earned touchdown and deserved to take Michigan's measure, but the Yostmen, profiting from a blocked punt, managed to knot the score at 6 to 6.

Gophers Bit the Dust

Another Valley championship was an easy achievement in 1912, but the season of 1913 was doubly pleasurable to Cornhusker adherents by reason of the fact that the Stiehm team was all-victorious. Minnesota bowed to Nebraska that year in a truly terrific struggle on Nebraska field. The final reckoning was 7 to 0, Nebraska scoring its touchdown on a brilliantly executed forward pass to Gordon Beck, playing at right end.

Stiehm's Huskers of 1914 and 1915 again were invincible. The high spots of the '14 season were the defeats of the powerful Michigan Aggies and the Iowa Hawkeyes. Guy Chamberlain and Dick Rutherford scintillated for Nebraska in the humbling of the Aggies, Chamberlain once covering 95 yards in returning a kickoff to a touchdown.

Huskers Took High Rating

The Aggies conquered Penn State that year, after the latter eleven had tied Harvard, leader of the "Big Three" in the eastern realm, and Nebraska's success in downing the Aggies gave the Cornhuskers an intersectional rating at the peak of the gridiron pile.

Nebraska's defeat of Notre Dame by a one-point margin in 1915 was the most spectacular performance of the year by the Cornhuskers. Chamberlain of Nebraska and Johnny Bergman of Notre Dame measured speed and football skill that day and the Cornhusker star captured the verdict. Chamberlain sprinted to two touchdowns, while Ted Riddell's snaring of a forward pass accounted for the third Nebraska touchdown.

Revenge on Syracuse

The Orange team of Syracuse invaded Lincoln on the last of the 1917 season and nosed ahead of the Cornhuskers, 10 to 9, in one of the great games in Nebraska annals. Nebraska evened the count in 1919, when the Huskers, coached by "Indian" Schulte, took the Syracuse team into camp, 3 to 0.

During the regime of Fred Dawson, next on the list of Nebraska's football mentors, the drubbing of the Pitt university Panthers in 1921 and the overthrow of the previously undefeated Notre Dame team in 1922 will take rank as two glittering achievements in Cornhusker tradition.

Credit Where Credit Due

No stretch of the imagination is involved in proclaiming that the defeat of Notre Dame in 1922 was the vital contributing factor in the success of the stadium project. Sixteen thousand spectators saw the Cornhuskers plunge and smash to one of the most stupendous gridiron victories in Nebraska history.

The fact that sixteen thousand others, perhaps more, wished to witness the spectacle, but could not because the capacity of the field was taxed to the limit, brought home to Nebraska followers the realization that the Cornhuskers simply had to have a field and stadium worthy of Nebraska's valorous teams.

The football world was astounded when the 1923 schedule was announced. Nebraska chose Illinois for a season-opener. Dawson was forced to groom five new linemen in order to have a team to meet the veteran Illini squad. Illinois won 24 to 7. The game was closely contested, Illinois leading at the start of the fourth quarter, 10-7. Grange, then in his first year, broke loose for the first time and scored two touchdowns in the last few minutes of play.

The opening game in the almost completed Memorial Stadium was staged on October 13 against Oklahoma. The score was 24-0 — Nebraska.

The Stadium was dedicated October 20 and a crowd of 20,000 saw Nebraska battle Kansas to a scoreless tie. The Cornhuskers made 15 first downs and gained 255 yards, as compared with 2 first downs and 44 yards of the Jayhawkers. The next game too was a tie with Missouri 7-7.

Another Notre Dame Defeat

On Armistice day the Cornhuskers jolted the powerful Notre Dame eleven, touted as the "Wonder team" to a 14-7 defeat. The triumph was herealded throughout the country as the outstanding surprise of the 1923 season.

The first Nebraska touchdown came in the second quarter, when Dave Noble smashed through the Notre Dame line and ran 24 yards, leaving a string of tacklers in his jaunt across the goal line. Dave also scored Nebraska's other touchdown when he snared a pass from Rufus Dewitz and crossed the final chalk mark. The Cornhuskers nearly scored again when Rhodes recovered a fumble and ran seventy yards to within three yards of a touchdown, when he was tackled and lost the ball, which was recovered by a Notre Dame player. The work of the Nebraska line was a feature of this game, the forwards opening huge holes in the "Irish" line and persistently balking the Notre Dame offense.

In the next game H. Dewitz, R. Dewitz, Lewellen and Robertson each hung up a counter at Iowa State. The Iowans rally was too late and the game ended 26 to 14 for Nebraska. With the Stadium now near completion 25,000 people saw Nebraska lose to Syracuse 7-0. Injuries crippled the offensive power of the Nebraska eleven, and Syracuse got under the line in the last period.

Hartman's line plunging was a feature of the Thanksgiving day game against the Kansas Aggies. Though the Kaggies were defeated 24 to 12 the game was a brilliant battle.

Last year's record is fresh in the minds of the Husker grid followers. The first game again against Illinois — this time at Nebraska. Ed Weir was the pilot and was looming in sportdom as a bright light. This year, "Red" Grange was stopped before he got started. Though the score was 9-6 for Illinois, Nebraska had played a wonderful game.

The Oklahoma shake-up gave Nebraska a poor start in Valley running but they took Colgate to a 34-7 cleaning a week later. Then on October 25 Kansas fell 14-7 and on November 1 Missouri was humbled 14-6.

On November 15 a special of 300 Nebraska fans journeyed to South Bend to unhorse the much touted "four horsemen." Nebraska drew the first blood by marching down the field to the one-yard line. Then Rockne ran into position the mighty quartet to check the advance. It was too late — Nebraska scored against the "horsemen" but got beat 34-6.

Kansas Aggies bowed under 24 to 0 at Manhattan on the 22nd and on Turkey day, the Oregon Aggies journeyed back home with the short end of a 14-0 score.

That was the last season under the tutorage of Fred Dawson. He had put Nebraska on the grid-iron map by twice defeating the Irish and had brought much credit to the school as one having an outstanding football team. Nebraska is now the most formidable foe of the Valley schools and under the present coaching of Ernest Bearg — former Illinois, is still playing epoch making football.

LINCOLN and THE BURLINGTON

IN 1850 the Burlington began serving the public in Illinois. It had 12 miles of track, one "Iron Horse," one coach, and two freight cars.

Today the Burlington's rails serve practically every important commercial center between Chicago and St. Louis and the Rocky Mountains, and through its connections with the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways, and its ownership of the Colorado & Southern railway, it reaches every point upon these systems — a total of 27,453 miles of railroad in 17 great states having an area of 1,600,138 square miles, with a population of 30,639,970 (1920 census.)

Its lines extending in literally every direction from Lincoln bring this city and the university in direct economic touch with the whole of America.

Today the Burlington owns more than 75,000 equipment units (light, medium, heavy freight, passenger, switching locomotives; box, flat, stock, coal, tank, refrigerator, passenger, dining, parlor, baggage, express, postal, and miscellaneous cars). Strung out, end to end, this equipment would make a train over 800 miles long.

The growth of The Burlington and the growth of Lincoln and the University of Nebraska have been concurrent — normal, healthy, inevitable. Each has had a great interest in the other based on friendship and business expediency. We have been neighbors and friends and all have prospered because friendship is the only correct basis for our mutual prosperity and success.

On July 29th, 1867, the hamlet of Lancaster was selected by State Commission as the site for the Capitol of Nebraska and renamed Lincoln. The population was thirty and there were ten crude dwellings of stone and wood. Material for the first little Capitol had to be hauled 60 miles by team.

At that time the Burlington had pushed its westward way as far as Chariton, Iowa — 200 miles away, but was coming fast, and exactly three years later was completed to Lincoln.

That was July 1870. The next year witnessed the founding of the University with an enrollment of 90 students.

Today Lincoln with a population estimated as 60,000 is a great midwest metropolis and center of a trade zone which is one of the most productive agricultural areas in the world.

Today Lincoln points proudly to a magnificent new five million dollar Capitol.

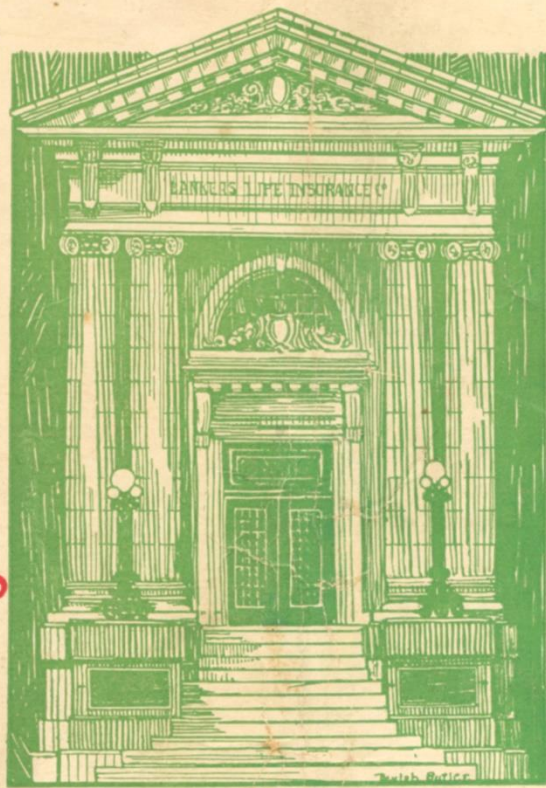

And today, with an enrollment of 9,000, the great university stands high up in the front rank of American educational institutions.
