Art Hunter

Center

Notre Dame

The fact that Hunter lives in nearby Riverside can result in a boost for Rams' fortunes this season. He was acquired last winter from the Cleveland Browns in a man-for-man trade for John Morrow, who lives in Michigan and each man wanted to play close to home. Recognized as one of the best blockers in the NHL, Hunter's work in pre-season games has been outstanding, plus the fact that he has been acting as captain. Began pro career after being the No. 1 draft choice by Green Bay after his collegiate career at Notre Dame was completed. Originally an offensive tackle, Hunter became a starter in his first season. However, he was called into the Armed Forces in 1955 and while in the service Cleveland traded for him. On his return to football became the Browns' regular center. Played on the East team in the 1960 Pro Bowl game. In college Hunter was an end, a tackle and center and in his senior year was one of the nation's most honored linemen. Made the first All-American team on choices by the AP, UP, INS, All-America Board, NBC-TV and many others. Also was invited to the East-West, Hula Bowl and College All-Star games. Lettered four years in baseball, and basketball in college also. Won 12 letters in high school in Akron, Ohio. Is married and has a son, two and a half years old. Born in Fairport Harbor, Ohio, on April 24, 1933.

Al Barry

Guard

Southern Cal

Barry, who not only was born in Los Angeles, but also played his college football at USC, is facing his former teammates tonight. Was a member of the Giants for the last two seasons and a key man in their title drives. Rams obtained Barry in a trade with Dallas for Hugh Pitts, who had been with L.A. in 1956 and then retired. Barry was with Dallas in the move to stock the newly formed Cowboy club. After leaving USC Barry went to Green Bay. Played regularly as a rookie in 1954 then spent two years in service and returned to the Packers in 1957. Giants traded 1959 draft choice to get Barry from the Packers in 1958. Played offensive guard and defensive tackle at USC. Named to All-Pacific Coast Conference team twice and won honorable mention on the AP's 1952 All-American. Earned three football letters and three track letters in

The Team New York Loves Too Much

One of pro football's blackest moments occurred on a biting-cold Sunday at Yankee Stadium last December.

A crowd of 68,436, spurred to a frenzied pitch by the superlative play of the home team, poured onto the field during the final 60 seconds of the game.

Play was interrupted, players accosted, fights provoked, a goal post ripped down. All was mayhem.

"It was the most fantastic thing I've ever seen on a football field," claims Ram guard Al Barry, who played for the New York Giants from 1957 through 1959. "The players stood on the sidelines lost in the mob. It looked like there was a million people on the field."

After a delay of nearly 30 minutes, the game was completed with the final score Giants 48, Cleveland 7. The Giants had inflicted the worst defeat in history on an arch-enemy, Paul Brown-coached Cleveland team. It clinched their second straight Eastern Division title.

Why did the fans riot instead of merely delight in the glory of so tremendous a triumph?

"They really love this team in New York, maybe even too much," replies Barry, a South Pasadena resident and alumnus of Beverly Hills High and SC.

"The fans in Los Angeles aren't nearly as rabid as they are in New York. It's probably because they don't have major college football there. Another thing is that they don't play pre-season games in New York. The fans begin hungering for pro football in August, but they aren't allowed to eat until October."

Ironically, this love affair between New York and the Giants is not one involving the boy next door. For there are no New York City players on the New York roster. Major idols are such foreigners as Charlie Conerly from Mississippi, Frank Gifford from Southern California, Kyle Rote from Texas (SMU), Sam Huff from West Virginia as well as coach Jim Lee Howell from Arkansas.

Barry borrows Madison Avenue's pet word "togetherness" to describe the major reason for the Giants' outstanding success the past several years."

"This is a team that always plays together. Every time Rote or Gifford or Schnelker goes out on a pass pattern, he comes back into the huddle to tell Conerly about the other team's defense. Then Conerly will call a play hoping to exploit a weakness. They're all top players and they play together.

"Another thing is the Giant defense. It's been the best in football."

Barry believes that Conerly, who at 39 is turning into a National Football League Grandma Moses, is an inspiration to the rest of the club because he's always in top shape.

"He typifies what you sportswriters call 'the old pro.'"

As for Barry, he's happy to be a Ram now and playing at home.

"It's always fun to beat your old teammates, and I'll be trying real hard out there Thursday night."

TURNABOUT IS FAIR PLAY

By TOM FEARS
As told to CHUCK BENEDICT
Rams' Public Relations Dept.

(Ed. Note: The well-worn phrase "most unusual day" is well applied to December 17, 1950, a highlight day in the football lives of Ram Coach Bob Waterfield and his assistant Tom Fears, who, at that time, were key men in the Los Angeles Ram offense. Together they authored one of the Rams' most thrilling victories which Tom relates here.)

The scoreboard looked mighty tidy. Short and sweet, it said, "Rams, 24; Bears, 14." The 1950 divisional crown was ours.

I guess I should have known it would take 24 points to win the game. During the regular season, the Bears had beaten us twice, scoring 24 points each time, and now justice was rightly served, because, as somebody once said, "Turnabout is fair play."

All of us were really high for the game. We had become fidgety while sitting out an open date the week before, and by the time we were ready to face Chicago, the great Midway Monsters just looked like ordinary monsters.

I had a personal ax to grind, too. In the final league game, two weeks before, I had caught eighteen passes, giving me a total of eighty-four for the season, and both were new league records. I had taken a real ribbing because five of the eighteen were shovel passes which I had taken as I circled behind the line from left end.

The "needlers" had been saying, "So you broke the record with those little shovel passes! Kinda cheap, isn't it?"

That kind of needling was bad, because the premise was wrong. I didn't break the record with shovel passes. The record was seventy-seven. I caught five shovels, yet I set a new record with eighty-four. So I had broken the record before catching the first shovel. Also, the five passes gained 28 yards net. Two of them were good enough for first downs and another went for six points. What's cheap about that?

Not only that, but the guy who had held the record at 77 didn't squawk about it or say it was cheap. His name? Tom Fears.

Believe me, when I still got the needling in spite of these points of argument, I was plenty eager to show that I was as anxious to catch the clutch pass with the chips down as I was to break records.

We went into that Bear game with just one able-bodied quarterback. Bob Waterfield had come down with intestinal flu on Wednesday, was delirious with fever on Friday, hadn't eaten a solid meal since Tuesday, and was too weak to drive his own car to the Coliseum for the game. That left the entire load on Norm Van Brocklin's shoulders.

From the start it appeared that Van didn't have it. He couldn't hit a lick with his first eight passes. In the huddle, I noticed that he was wincing and we found out later that he had cracked a rib on the second play of the game. He didn't complain, though, and didn't tell anyone about it until after the game. Of course, he was always a stubborn Dutchman with a lot of pride as well as a lot of talent.

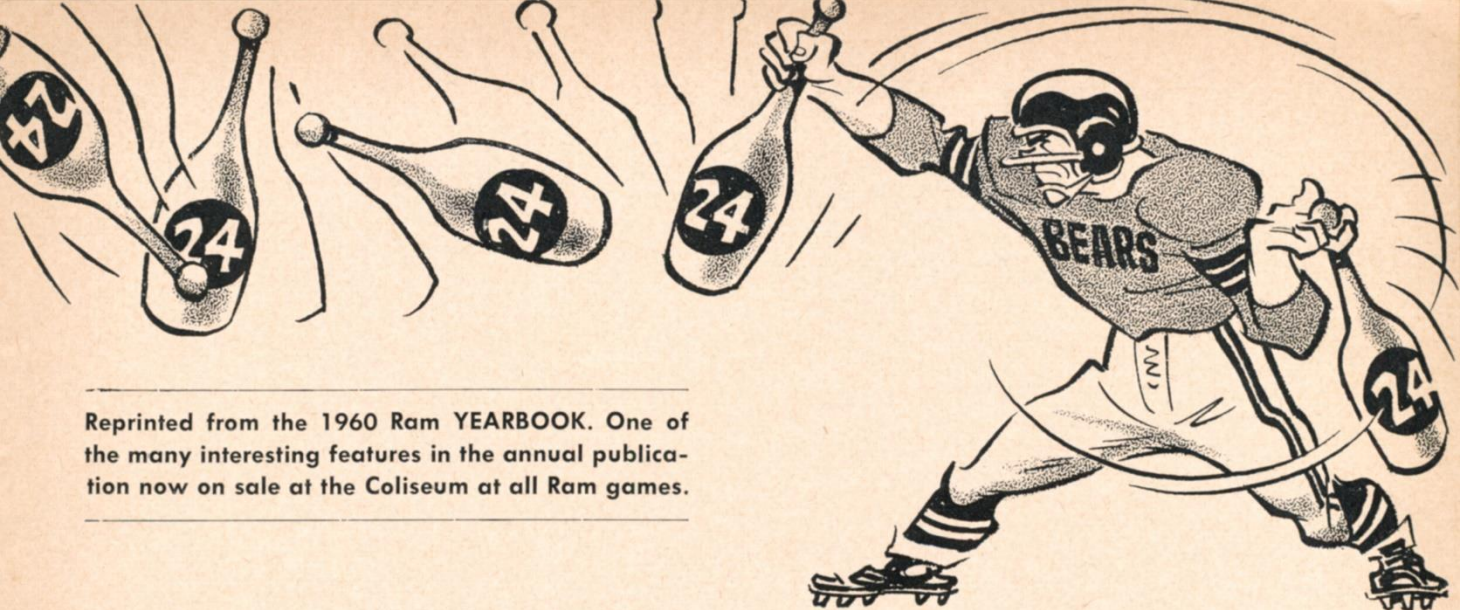

While I was chasing after some of those early passes, I realized that Bear Coach George Halas had put in George McAfee (agile, fast, smart—a real old pro) to play me man for man from a floating safety. That meant that anytime I got as deep as the defensive halfback, McAfee automatically picked me up.

I accepted that move as a fine compliment from Halas, but it was the kind of a compliment that made me a bit anxious. McAfee was a good man, but I was determined to fake him back to the offensive platoon as soon as possible.

Early in the game, in a move which I couldn't find acceptable under the rules, McAfee used a wrestler's trick on me. When we were both away from the play, he managed to drop me with a scissors grip. I told him, and I may have used rather indelicate terms, that such actions had a way of coming home to roost.

In spite of Van Brocklin's passing troubles, most of the first quarter was a stalemate. Then, when Curley Morrison quick-kicked dead on our thirty-seven, Waterfield grabbed his helmet and went into the game. Apparently Van Brocklin thought coach Joe Stydahar had sent Bob in, and by the time Van and Joe realized Bob had entered the game on his own, it was too late to call him back. The first play Bob called was a handoff to Glenn Davis, who streaked sixty-three yards for a touchdown. But it was a "touchdown" that was not a touchdown. A penalty called the play back, and in the next huddle I noticed that Waterfield was panting more than Davis.

From that moment on, Buckets seemed to gain strength. It was incredible. The more energy he expended, the stronger he seemed to get. It was so unbelievable that I feared a sudden and complete collapse. Until the end of the game I was never convinced Bob would be able to keep the show on the road.

Right after that heart-breaking penalty on the Davis run, Bob laid a floater right in my lap for forty-two yards. About three plays later, he booted a 43-yard field goal and we were in front, three to nothing.

Then the Bears' running game caught fire, and Morrison, George Gulyanics and Al Campana pounded for 65 yards and a touchdown. Normally, it was nothing to worry about to be down four points, because that 1950 Ram team had set all kinds of scoring records. But with Waterfield's endurance a question mark and with Van Brocklin out, four points seemed like forty.

A few minutes later we found a fresh start with a play that bolstered my contention that there's no defense against the perfectly executed pass. The best that any defender can do on a man-for-man basis is to react quickly to the receiver's fakes and moves. That split-second lag gives the receiver the advantage of a half step or more. To hold this lead, he must outrun the defender, without breaking stride. If the passer throws short, the stride is broken and the defender pulls even. The advantage is lost and the ball is just up for grabs.

It was a perfectly executed pass that brought us our first touchdown against the Bears. I was able to shake McAfee for a one stride advantage, and Waterfield, throwing about forty-five yards in the air, laid the ball in my lap as I kept the same pace. McAfee lunged, missed and fell, and at that moment, according to the picture caught by the Herald-Express' Tom Courtney, I gave McAfee a rather contemptuous sneer. It was, of course, turnabout, legal-style, for the scissors. I eased on into the end zone with no one else near me, thinking, "If Bob can keep this up, we'll beat 'em."

Later in the second quarter we were on the Bear twenty-seven. I got a step ahead of McAfee, but I had to go all out to stay in front. As I crossed the goal line at full speed, Waterfield hit me right in the hands. That made it seventeen to seven at halftime.

Right here I'd like to say that I thought our team effort that day was tremendous. The pass protection, the ground game, Freddy Naumetz' wonderful defensive unit—all groups and individuals played their parts and played them well.

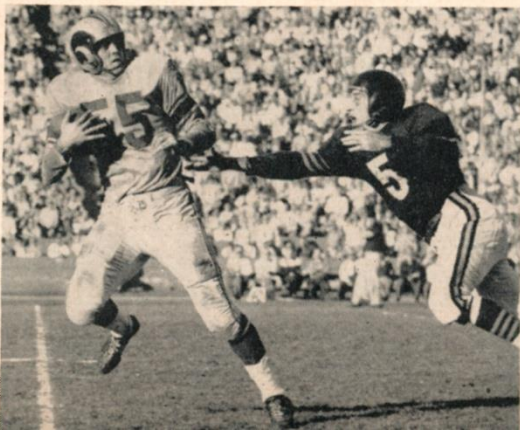

In the second half, I had a couple more brushes with McAfee as I ran my receiving total to 199 yards. On one occasion, I took a short pass thrown to me five yards behind the line of scrimmage. They tell me I dodged and shook off a half dozen guys in the next 27 yards, including McAfee, who accidentally got a finger in my eye just before I reached the end zone.

TURNABOUT IS FAIR PLAY

I had to sit out much of the rest of the game with lousy vision. I remember vainly trying to read the scoreboard. But it didn't make too much difference. I couldn't see, but I knew we had twenty-four points and it seemed as if it would be enough.

Johnny Lujack got one more Bear drive going, and the final score was 24-14.

The rest of the game was fiercely played. It was so rough that even the usually mild Gil Bouley was tossed out for a little extracurricular activity. But then in those days the Bears and Rams shared many rough moments.

I think I have explained some facets of that victory. I have explained why Van Brocklin was off form. I have explained how Waterfield's fantastic accuracy nullified the Halas-McAfee strategy and gave me my most satisfying day in football.

But the story of Waterfield's physical endurance after the flu siege is another matter. I knew the facts. I saw the strength incredibly surge back. I was, to put it mildly, astounded.

But to explain it—I beg off. That must be somebody else's department.

NO DRINKING PERMITTED IN COLISEUM

Los Angeles City Ordinance Number 92812 (amending Section 40.27 of the Los Angeles Municipal Code) prohibits the drinking of intoxicating beverages (beer, wine and whiskey) in the Memorial Coliseum. This ordinance was passed to protect against automobile accidents due to excessive drinking in the after-game traffic rush. It is sincerely requested that you abide by the ordinance not only for your protection and health, but also for those of your neighbors.

college, hitting 50-9 in shot put. Married to former Phyllis Ann Beal. Is first lieutenant in Air Force Reserve. Born December 24, 1930.

Vic Lindskog Offensive Line Coach Stanford

When Head Coach Bob Waterfield was seeking an experienced staff of National Football League men as assistant coaches, Vic Lindskog was a natural. With eight years as a center with the then top-rated Philadelphia Eagles and a coach there for another three years, Lindskog knows what it is to play on championship teams. This became a habit with him even in college at Stanford. Played on a winner there in ten straight games and a Rose Bowl victory over Nebraska. He also coached the Vancouver Lions in Canada and then had success at Bakersfield College, from where Waterfield employed him for the Rams.

George Strugar Defensive Tackle Washington

Strugar is developing into one of the top defensive tackles in the NFL since being drafted by the Rams on the third round following his 1956 season at Washington. In pre-season games this year he scored one touchdown on an intercepted pass in one game and repeated the feat last week against the 49ers, only to have the play called back because of a penalty. A good pass rusher and good speed for a 258-pound man. Had a great senior year at Washington. Was named to College All-Star squad and played in East-West game. Earned All-Coast honors and basketball letters at Washington and plays on the Rams' off-season basketball team. Is single. Born April 2, 1934.

The 1 out of 20
that didn't get smoked

There's a lot of satisfaction in pointing out something good to a friend. That's why it sometimes happens that one cigarette out of a pack of Dual Filter Tareytons never does get smoked.

People break it open to show its unique Dual Filter containing Activated Charcoal. They may not know why it works so well, but they do know this: It filters for flavor—the finest flavor by far. Yes, above all, Tareyton has the taste . . . and the Dual Filter does it!

Try a pack of Dual Filter Tareyton. We believe the extra pleasure they bring will soon have you passing the good word to your friends.

Tareyton has the taste— DUAL FILTER DOES IT!

HERE'S HOW: 1. It combines a unique inner filter of ACTIVATED CHARCOAL . . . definitely proved to make the taste of a cigarette mild and smooth . . .

2. with a pure white outer filter. Together they select and balance the flavor elements in the smoke. Tareyton's flavor-balance gives you the best taste of the best tobaccos.

NEW DUAL FILTER Tareyton

Product of The American Tobacco Company—"Tobacco is our middle name" © A. T. Co.

When you can't come to the games TUNE IN RAMS FOOTBALL on KMPC or consult your local radio listings. All games brought to you by DUAL FILTER TAREYTON.

Invitation to Relaxation The time is twilight, the mood is mellow, the drink is 7 Crown—the happiest combination to end a long day's labors. If you haven't savored these rewards of relaxation, do so tonight, keeping in mind the spirit of the hour is the whiskey that delivers clarity and character of taste surpassing any other. SAY SEAGRAM'S AND BE SURE
