Y. A. TITTLE

DEL SHOFNER

KEN KAVANAUGH

KYLE ROTE

One way or another, they all had a part in it.

LAST Sunday was loaded with interesting developments. The Giants discovered that the Redskins—particularly Norm Snead and Bobby Mitchell—were for real. Concurrently, the Redskins found that the Giants—particularly Y. A. Tittle and all his pass receivers—were unbelievable.

With one of football's greatest passing exhibitions, Tittle picked Washington's defense to pieces. On his mettle for a heralded duel with the Redskins' Snead, billed as the pro quarterback of the future, the Giants' salty old campaigner showed the capital young slinger from the Capitol that there still are tricks to learn.

Firing bullseyes in volleys, Y. A. completed 27 of 39 passes for a fantastic total of 505 yards—a new Giant record by a little matter of 142 yards. Seven of his completions went for touchdowns, which tied a National League mark shared by the great Sid Luckman of the Bears and Adrian Burke of the Eagles.

Collaborating brilliantly with Tittle in this rousing show were poor, spavined Del Shofner, who hobbled downfield for 11 catches (tying a Giant record) good for 269 yards (a Giant record); Joe Walton (inspired no doubt by last week's program piece on his inconspicuous efficiency), who caught six passes for 63 yards; Frank Gifford, who nailed four for 127 yards, and Joe Morrison, who grabbed two for 24 yards.

The suddenly conspicuous Walton made three touchdown catches. Morrison rang the TD bell on both his receptions. Gifford, on a 63-yard gem, and Shofner, on a 32-yarder that was one of his shorter gainers, also crossed that last white line with the pigskin clutched to their manly bosoms.

All in all, it was quite a show—the more so because Snead, who threw beautifully under cruel pressure from the Giant rushline, was dropping bombs in there, too.

As well he might, Coach Al

Sherman praised Tittle and the Giant receivers to the skies. "Y.A. mixed up his plays beautifully and threw fabulously," said Allie afterward. "Shofner, Walton, Giff and the others deserve tremendous credit, too. We don't try to set up too many pass patterns in advance—four or five a game at most. But they made on-the-spot adjustments as they went along that broke the game wide open."

Since it was a time for distributing kudos for a job well done, Ken Kavanaugh, as vice-president in charge of pass-patterns, and Kyle Rote, as over-all offensive coach, were called to front and center for deep bows, too.

Ah, yes! It was a great day.... But now another moment of truth is at hand and what the Giants did against the Redskins isn't going to cut any ice.

They face another challenge, and different problems, against the Cardinals, a hard-rock team labelled by many observers as a prime contender for the Eastern title before the season opened.

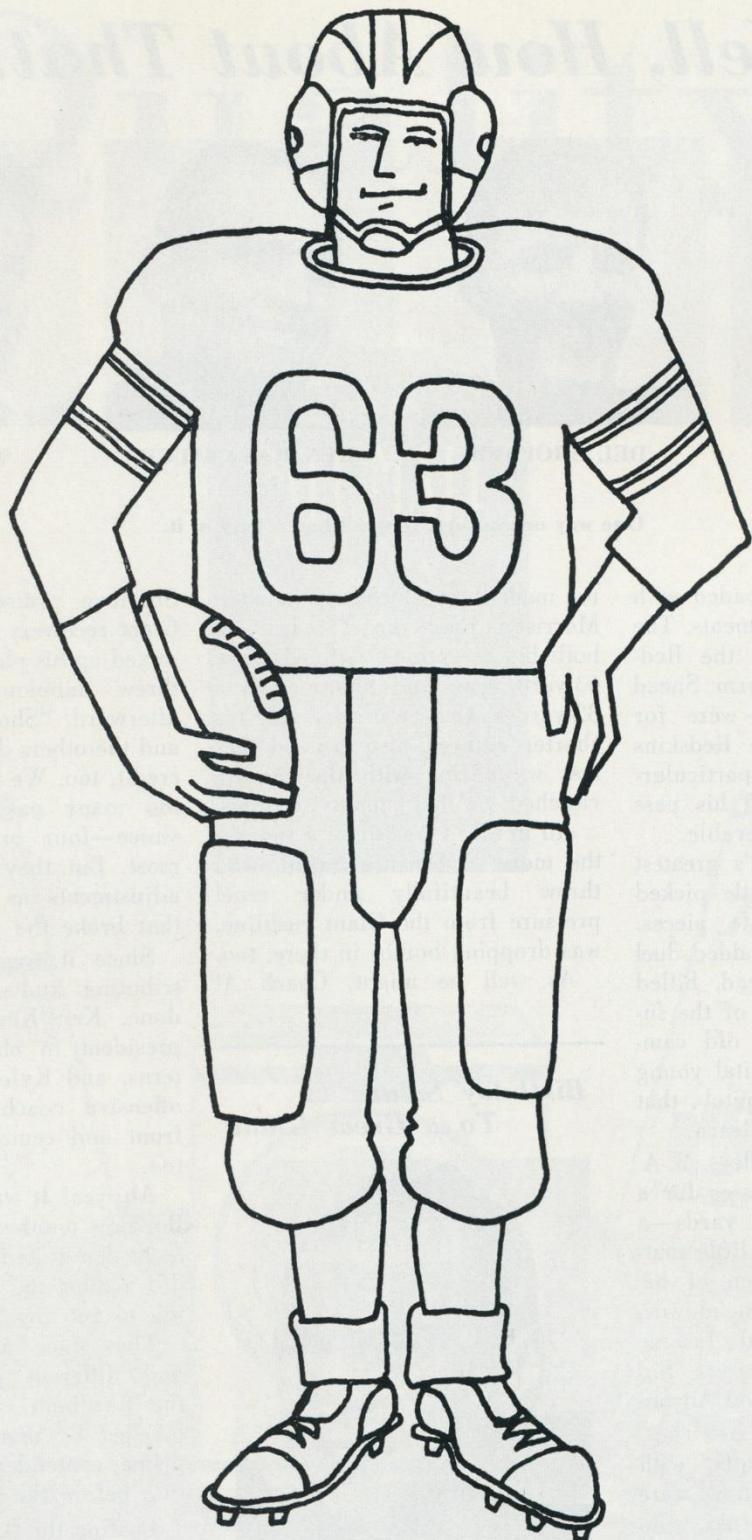

Beating the Redskins after their great "must" win over the Lions put the Giants back into the title fight. To stay there, our boys are going to have to put forth the same type of all-out effort against St. Louis.

The fact that the Giants trounced the Cardinals rather handily in the Mound City a few weeks ago make this that much a tougher game. Beware, Giants, beware!

Birthday Salute To a Great Giant

Ray Wietecha, 34 today, is being specially honored by Giant fans . . . which is only fair, considering that he has performed with high honor for the Giants for 125 consecutive Sundays over the past nine seasons. Today Ray will tie Em Tunnell's Giant club record of 126 straight games.

JOCULAR GIANT

Dick Modzelewski Makes **Everyone Laugh*

* Except the Other Guys

DEFENSIVE tackle Dick Modzelewski has the knack of making his Giant teammates laugh. But to rival National Football League runners and passers, there's absolutely nothing funny about the bruising ex-Maryland star.

While "Little Mo's" weekly stints in the middle of the Giants' defensive line seldom earn him the acclaim that goes to his more renowned sidekicks, the 31-year-old warhorse nevertheless rates highly with his coaches — and particularly with his opponents.

Mo is a consistent performer. Game after game, he wades in—spilling ball-carriers, intimidating passers and generally harassing everyone across the line of scrimmage.

Rarely, however, does he get the headlines. They usually are reserved for Sam Huff . . . or Andy Robustelli . . . or Rosey Grier. These players have a flair for the sensational. Mo does not.

"I don't mind, though," confesses the 10-year NFL veteran. "I do my job . . . and as long as the coaches are satisfied, that's what counts."

"Publicity? Sure I like publicity, but I guess I'm just not the type of player who attracts attention."

How the all-pro selectors can continually overlook Mo is a deep mystery to the Giant defensive stars who toil alongside the rugged 250-pounder each Sunday during the season.

"He's the best," says middle linebacker Huff, himself a perennial all-pro choice. "He makes it easy for the rest of us."

"That's right," echoes co-captain Andy Robustelli, one of Modzelewski's closest buddies. "Dick doesn't get the credit he deserves. He's a great football player."

Coach Al Sherman believes Modzelewski is one of the best pass rushers in the business. "He exerts terrific internal pressure on the pass blockers," explains Allie. "In many cases, he forces the quarterback out of the pocket before he's ready to throw."

Mo is a defensive football man from the ground up. He stands 6 feet, but short, thick legs give him the appearance of being shorter. He has broad shoulders and heavy, muscular arms. He also comes equipped with contact lenses but he never seems to have trouble locating the fellow with the football.

Although Modzelewski arrived on the Giant scene long after the exit of former coach Steve Owen, he is the kind of player Stout Steve probably had in mind when he used to say:

"Football is a man's game. It's played down in the dirt, and the guy who gets up first is the best player."

That's the way Mo likes it, too—down in the dirt and the rougher the better.

The Modzelewski clan in West Natrona, Pa., would seem to specialize in turning out rugged footballers. First there was Ed (Big Mo) Modzelewski, who starred at fullback for the Cleveland Browns. Then came Dick. And currently, 18-year-old Eugene (No Mo) Modzelewski is furthering the family gridiron tradition at Har-Brach High.

An unanimous All-America choice at Maryland, Dick was drafted No. 2 by Washington in 1953. The Redskins traded him to Pittsburgh in 1955 and, a year later, he came to the Giants.

The start of a winning era for the Giants coincided with Mo's arrival. He joined Huff, Robustelli and Jim Katcavage, all 1956 additions to the defense, as New York won the world title that year. Eastern championships followed in 1958, 1959 and 1961—thanks largely to the goal-line heroics of Modzelewski and his defensive cohorts.

But Mo contributes much more to the Giants than just football playing. He is a tremendously humorous fellow, easy-going and good natured. He usually manages to get a laugh during practice, at team meetings and at the training table. He tells jokes. He sings. He mimics players and coaches.

"Everything that guy does is funny," says Dick Lynch.

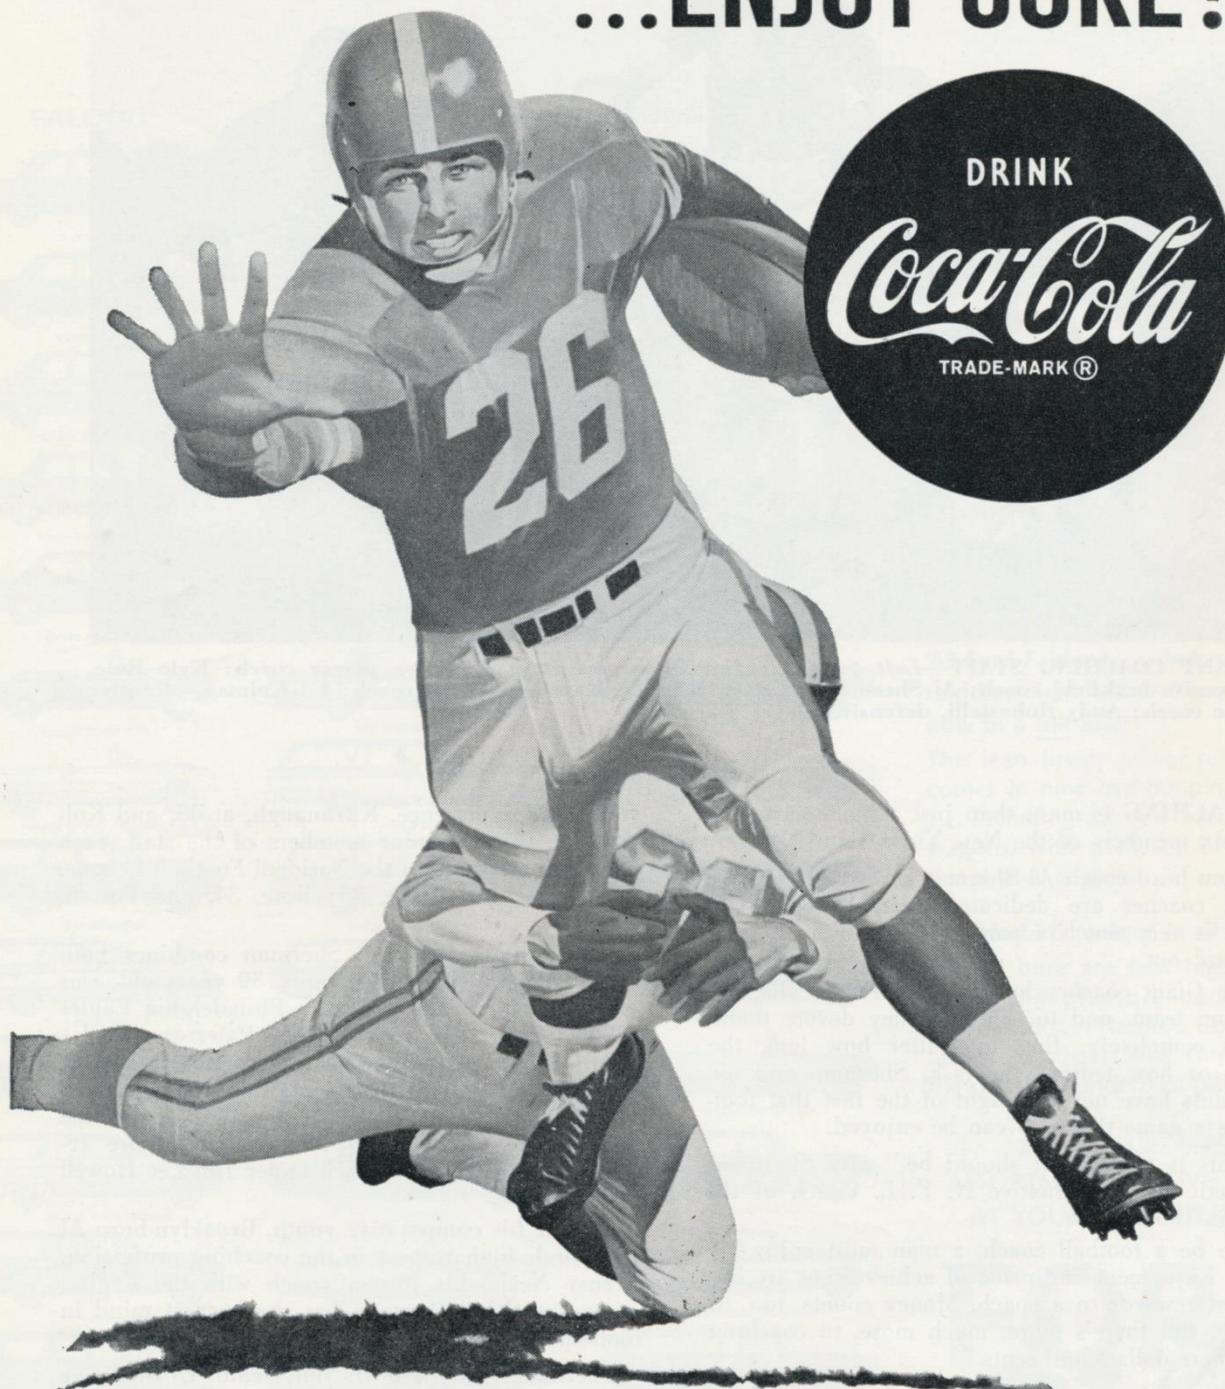

In 1960, when CBS-TV filmed a half-hour documentary called "The Violent World of Sam Huff," Modzelewski stole the show in a scene where he sang a Polish song accompanied on the guitar by the 290-pound Grier.

Dick is married to the former Dorothy Welsh of West Natrona. They have three children. Six-year-old Mark is the oldest, daughter, Laurie, is four and son, Terrence Andrew, is three.

The Modzelewskis make their off-season home in Cleveland, home of the hated Browns, but Dick is still one of the Ohio town's most popular figures—all 250 pounds of him.

BE REALLY REFRESHED!

...ENJOY COKE!

Joe Walton

In his quiet, efficient way, Joe Walton (80) does a whale of a job for the Giants at the tight end spot on attack. Although the black-haired Pitt graduate is not particularly big at 205 pounds, he blocks tellingly. And, although he's no speed demon, he has the knack of breaking clear for key catches over the line. The Giants got Joe from the Redskins before the 1961 season.

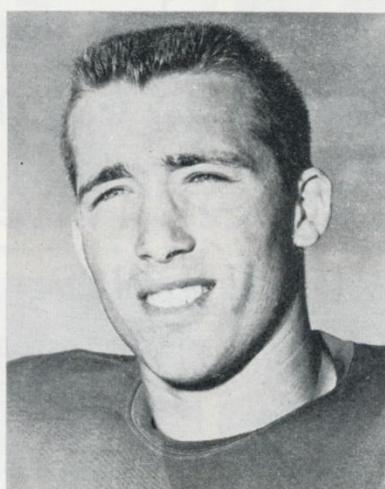

The Giants consider themselves highly fortunate in having come up with since 1961 so well-qualified an alternate quarterback as Ralph Gugliemi (9). This All-America from Notre Dame saw four years of service with the Redskins and also put in a season with the Cardinals. Goog knows the NFL ropes, passes and handles the ball expertly and is a strong, elusive runner. He'll put in a lot of playing time in support of Y. A. Tittle.

Giant Close-Ups

Johnny Counts

Johnny Counts (46) was signed as a free agent by the Giants last June. But he wasn't exactly a "sleeper." The Giants were aware of his talents ever since his high school days at New Rochelle, where he starred in track as well as football. They would have signed him sooner but they had to await the graduation of his entering class at Illinois, where Johnny was named the Big Ten "sophomore of the year" in 1960.

Aaron Thomas

For insurance against injuries to Del Shofner and Frank Gifford, their prime deep pass receivers, the Giants got big Aaron Thomas (88) from the 49ers early this season in exchange for Bob Gaiters. The 6-foot-3, 208-pound Oregon State graduate, who hauled down 15 passes for 301 yards as a 1961 rookie with San Francisco, can go get 'em.

Mickey Walker

Mickey Walker (64) was signed by the Giants as a free agent in 1961, a year after he had finished a brilliant career at Michigan State. First thought of as a linebacker, he was shifted to offensive guard last season and did a capable fill-in job for Jack Stroud and Darrell Dees. This season he is at linebacker again and doing a bang-up job in support of the starters. A rugged 230-pounder, he loves to get in there and mix it.

Warning: icy roads ahead...bad weather...more driving after dark. This is no time to be without seat belts.

Have a Chevron Dealer put them in your car this week. Cost? $5.95 each, installed free.

Accidents do happen. When they do, seat belts save lives, cut injuries. That's why we urge you to get belts...and use them.

Is your car ready for winter driving? Unless it's equipped with seat belts, the answer is a firm "no." Why? The majority of serious automobile injuries occur at less than 40 mph, and within 25 miles of home. That's just the kind of driving you'll probably be doing a lot of this winter...plenty of it on slippery roads.

Many people have paid $12.95 each for the same belts that most Chevron Dealers are offering for only $5.95. The belts are made by Davis Aircraft Products of 100% Caprolan® nylon, with adjustable, quick-opening buckles of strong aircraft aluminum. They exceed all known automotive safety standards—including the tough GSA requirements set by the U.S. Government.

If you don't have belts in your car, by all means have them installed before winter sets in. This week would be better than next. See your Chevron Dealer.

At the sign of the CHEVRON we take better care of your car

Giant Close-Ups

Del Shofner

Don Chandler

Long noted as the most dangerous deep pass receiver in the NFL, Del Shofner (85) hit peak efficiency with the Giants in 1961. His 68 receptions were good for 1,125 yards, a total that led the league, and he scored 11 TDs. The Giants snagged Del, a 1957 Baylor graduate, in a pre-season deal with the Rams. In combination with Y. A. Tittle, he gave them an offensive boost that helped them win the Eastern title.

Giant fans are seeing Don Chandler (34) in a new role this season. Besides handling the punting assignment, which he has done admirably for six years, the strong-legged Florida graduate has taken over the place-kicking chores abandoned by the retired Pat Summerall. Don is doing better than just all right at his additional new job. He's getting both distance and direction on his placements.

Jim Collier

Joe Walton

Alex Webster

Among the several fine rookies the Giants have added to their roster this season is Jim Collier (84). This swift, rangy end from Arkansas has displayed rare first-year ability to go and get that football. As he gets to know the Giant pass patterns better, you'll be seeing more of him. Jim has all the requisites of a good pro end—size, speed, and good hands, desire and intelligence.

In his quiet, efficient way, Joe Walton (80) does a whale of a job for the Giants at the tight end spot on attack. Although the black-haired Pitt graduate not particularly big at 205 pounds, he blocks tellingly. And, although he's no speed demon, he has the knack of breaking clear for key catches over the line. The Giants got Joe from the Redskins before the 1961 season.

All but written off in 1960 after injuries had resulted in a second straight sub-par season, Alex Webster (29) had his best all-around year as a Giant in 1961. The big redhead from East Brunswick, N. J., hammered rival lines for 928 yards, to finish third in the NFL rushing totals. As in 1955-58, he once again was the Giants' bread-and-butter carrier.

Bill Winter

The Giants think they have come up with a real "find" in Bill Winter (31). Although he was only an 18th round choice in the 1962 college draft, Winter won regular rating in pre-season training and has firmly established himself at left linebacker. A hard-hitting 220-pounder, who moves fast, Bill won eight major letters in football, baseball and basketball at little St. Olaf College.

Big Rosy Grier (76), a third-round draft pick in 1955, has been a Giant defensive mainstay at right tackle even since his rookie season. For all his 290 pounds, Rosy is as quick as a cat on his feet. Out of Linden, N. J., he played his college ball at Penn State, where he also excelled as a shot-putter and discus-thrower. A man of many talents, Grier also has a rich baritone voice and is making his mark as a concert and recording artist.

Giant Close-Ups

Ken Byers

In their quest for added line depth, the Giants made Ken Byers (60) their No. 7 choice in last winter's draft. The 240-pound Cincinnati graduate has proved to be a valuable acquisition. Primarily a tackle in college, Ken is serviceable anywhere on the defensive rushline and also can be used as a linebacker or up front on offense.

Bookie Bolin

The Giants got early delivery on Bookie Bolin (63), drafted as a "future" last winter, when the N. C. A. A. ruled him ineligible for further play at Mississippi. The rugged, mobile 235-pounder was a pre-season sensation but had to sit out the early part of the regular campaign with a leg fracture. Now that he's healthy again, he's in line for heavy duty at guard.

Jim Katecavage

In 1961, Jim Katecavage (75) won all-league acclaim as a defensive end from both the AP and UPI. He thereby gained public credit for an honor Giant insiders felt he has deserved for several years. A Philadelphia native who attended Dayton University, the Big Kat was a No. 4 draft choice in 1956. He won a starting job almost immediately, was a big factor in helping the Giants win the world championship and has been a key rushliner ever since.

Eagles Here Nov. 18

TIM BROWN

SONNY JURGENSEN

TOMMY McDONALD

THE Giants go on the road next Sunday to face the suddenly formidable Cowboys in Dallas (don't forget to tune in on CBS-TV, Channel 2, and/or dial WNEW, 1130 KC).

They'll be back at the Stadium the following Sunday, Nov. 18, to face the Philadelphia Eagles in what shapes up as one of the more exciting games of this exciting Giant season.

Philadelphia, like the Giants, has a dynamic passing game.

Sonny Jurgensen has given the New Yorkers fits the last couple of seasons with his bullseye tosses to slippery Tommy McDonald, Bobby Walston and Pete Retzlaff, currently injured. Lately King Hill has taken an active role in the Eagles' aerial circus, too, and the Philadelphians recently enrolled another crack receiver in Hop Cassady.

The Eagles emphasize passing but they have a dangerous running attack, too, with Clarence Peaks and Tim Brown as their principal carriers. Brown is a terror at returning punts and kick-offs.

Another Philadelphia asset is a hard-nosed defense built around that great old pro, Chuck Bednarik.

Incidentally, if you don't already have tickets, forget it! This is another sell-out. If you have seats, come early to be sure you'll be able to enjoy every minute of another Giants-Eagles classic.

Award Winners

Y. A. TITTLE

Y A. TITTLE . . . who else? . . . and Rosey Grier were last Sunday's Giant award winners for performance beyond the call of duty against the Redskins. Tittle scored a double, earning both the Kinney Award (one year's free use of a Kinney rental car) as the outstanding Giant player of the game and the J. P. Stevens Award (a wardrobe of sports clothes) for his offensive play. Grier received the Stevens Award for defensive excellence.

In the greatest day a Giant passer ever had, Tittle completed 27 of 39 passes for 505 yards and seven touchdowns. Y. A. also authored one of the great quotes of our time.

When asked why, with the chance to do so, he didn't try for an eighth touchdown pass that would have earned him an exclusive entry in the NFL record book instead of just co-listing with Sammy Baugh and Adrian Burke, the gentlemanly quarterback replied:

"It would have been in bad taste."

ROSEY GRIER

The 290-pound Grier led a Giant defensive line charge that helped Tittle win his pitching duel with Washington's Norm Snead.

The Giants choose United Air Lines for team travel

Most professional athletic teams—such as the New York Giants—choose United for their team travel. One reason: schedule convenience. United flies more jets . . . more often . . . to more cities . . . than any other airline.

But an even more important reason to choose United is the Extra Care we take with every detail of every trip.

So next time you travel—for business or pleasure—fly United, the Extra Care airline offering the most jets to the most U.S. cities.

WORLD'S LARGEST JET FLEET

THE EXTRA CARE AIRLINE

LAST Sunday night's Section Five Club soiree at the Hotel Biltmore in honor of Alex Webster was a smashing success. Among other tokens of esteem, Alex received from Radio Station WNEW a handsome 18-foot cruiser powered by a 75-horsepower outboard motor and a complete outfit of water-skiing equipment. . . . Reed Bohovich, the Giants' rookie tackle, stole the post-presentation show with his highly animated version of the "twist." As befits an engineer from Lehigh, Reed knows all the angles—on the gridiron and dance floor.

There'll be an Ivy League touch to today's Giant-Cardinal game. Cornell University's Big Red band will perform between the halves. The marching musicians from Far Above Cayuga's Waters are directed by William A. Campbell. . . . Dick Lynch, the Giants' crack defensive halfback, and his wife, Roz, are the proud parents of a bouncing baby girl. . . . Down on the farm: Glynn Griffing, drafted by the Giants last December as a "future," is having a great season at quarterback for undefeated Ole Miss.

In the statistical confusion attendant to last Sunday's Giant aerial explosion against the Redskins, it was temporarily overlooked that Joe Walton bagged a record, too. Joe's three touchdown pass receptions tied the Giant single-game record shared by Del Shofner, Kyle Rote, Frank Liebel and Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts. . . . Sam Huff has blocked four assorted kicks this season: one extra point, two field goals, one punt.

At last Monday's Pro Quarterback Club luncheon at Leone's Restaurant, Bobby Mitchell of the Redskins said that Norman Snead is "the greatest passer who ever has thrown to me." Without quarreling with Bobby, it's too bad he never had a chance to play catch with Y. A. Tittle. . . . The modest Tittle, incidentally, gave all the credit for his great show against the Redskins to his receivers and protective blockers. "I had all day to throw and the boys were getting clear," said Y. A. "What more could a passer ask for?"

Paul Dudley and Jim Collier, two of the new Giants you'll be hearing more of as the season progresses, were teammates for three years at Arkansas. . . . As their salute to Ray Wietecha, who is being honored today, the Giants gave the great center an inscribed silver football. . . . The Giants' next two home games, with the Eagles on Nov. 18 and the Browns on Dec. 9, are sell-outs. So remember to come early and avoid the crush.

Looking Over: The Cardinals

BEFORE the 1962 season opened, many gridiron sages picked the St. Louis Cardinals to win the National League's Eastern title. It doesn't appear now that this prediction will materialize. But the flipflop traces mainly to the fact that a football tends to take a lot of funny bounces. The Cardinals remain a whale of a football squad, with the basic ability to lead the loop. Certainly, on any given day, they're capable of clobbering any rival.

Among other attributes, St. Louis possesses two bedrock football virtues that command high respect—big, strong running backs and a hard-nosed defensive unit.

The big wheel of the formidable Cardinal running game is John David Crow. This rawboned 215-pound Texan, the Heisman Award winner at Texas A. and M. in 1957, is a driving, slashing, twisting demon with the ball. He set the Cardinal ground-gaining record of 1,071 yards in 1960 and led the league that year with a 5.9-yard rushing average. Out of action for most of last season with a broken leg, Crow now is back in top form.

As running companions for Crow, the Cardinals have others of the same type in 200-pound Prentice Gault, 200-pound Joe Childress, 205-pound Mal Hammack and 212-pound Bill Triplett, the rookie brother of Mel Triplett, the former Giant.

A powerful line operates in front of these strong runners. It presents Bob DeMarco at center; Ken Gray, Mike McGee and Tom Redmond at the guards and Ernie McMillan, Irv Goode and Ken Panfil at the tackles.

Part of the Cardinals' trouble this season has been their inability to mount an effective passing attack in support of their potent ground game.

Wally Lemm, the new St. Louis coach, still is hopeful that the Redbirds will be able to get off the ground in this important respect. Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, repatriated from Canada last year, has had the arm miseries and has been firing too many passing blanks. While Etcheverry nominally still is the No. 1 quarterback, Lemm is turning more and more to Charlie Johnson, a sophomore pro from New Mexico State, who has a livelier arm.

If the passers can only get the ball to them, the Cardinals have receivers who can take off with it. Sonny Randle, the split left end, is one of the best in the business and Bobby Joe Conrad, the versatile flanker back who also handles the place-kicking assignment, is topnotch, too. The tight ends, Taz Anderson and Hugh McInnis, are capable pass-catchers also and the rookie flanker, John Elwell, shows bright promise.

Relentless "red dogging" is the hallmark of the rugged Cardinal defense. The muscular line-backing trio of Bill Koman, Dale Meinert and Marion Rushing takes fiendish delight in shooting the gaps and pouring in on rival backs. On occasions, Larry Wilson, the right safetyman, also joins the rush.

St. Louis has a solid frontal foursome in Ed Henke, Don Owens, Frank Fuller and Luke Owens, reading from left to right. Their cornermen are the fleet veteran Jimmy Hill, on the left, and Pat Fischer, the lightest player in the National League at 165 pounds, on the right. Billy Stacy, a rising star, teams with Wilson at safety, having moved back from the right corner with the retirement of All-Leaguer Jerry Norton.

Throw the records out the window. This is a rough, tough Cardinal team that figures to give the Giants fits today, as it has done so often in the past.

Series Review

TODAY'S game will be the forty-second between the Giants and Cardinals, who have been trading blocks and tackles once or twice annually with few exceptions since 1926, when the National Football League was just a pup.

The series record shows a 31-10 edge for the Giants. However, it would be a mistake to interpret these figures as indicating that this has been a one-sided series. To the contrary, the rivalry has been torrid and replete with see-saw, high-scoring games and unexpected outcomes.

For example, the Polo Grounds game of 1948 saw 98 points scored—63 by the Cardinals, 35 by the Giants. The New Yorkers staged some scoring stampedes of their own. They won by 51-21 in 1950 and 41-10 in 1954.

For all the recent success of the Giants have had in the league at large the Cardinals have remained formidable. The teams broke even in 1960 and also split their home-and-home series last year. Oddly, the Giants won at St. Louis, 24-9, and the Cardinals scored here, 21-10.

In their first 1962 match, at St. Louis on Oct. 7, the Giants beat the Cardinals, 31-14. Off past performances, that result has no significance. The complete series record:

1926—h Giants 20, Cards 0	1930—h Giants 25, Cards 12
1927—h Giants 28, Cards 7	Giants 13, Cards 7
1929—h Giants 24, Cards 21	1935—h Cards 14, Giants 13

1936—h Giants 14, Cards 6	1954—Giants 21, Cards 10

"Live life each day-don't just pass through it"

Dick Lynch

Y. A. Tittle

Y. A. Tittle (14) is the NFL's senior quarterback at 35 years old, but one would never guess it to watch him in sprightly action. Acquired from the 49ers in a pre-season 1961 trade, Y. A. paced the Giants to the Eastern title with his thread-needle passing and fiery leadership. Going into his 14th pro season, he had completed 1,859 passes—tops in the game.

Dick Lynch (22) distinguished himself by scoring the touchdown that broke Oklahoma's record 47-game winning streak. The handsome Irishman, a product of New York's Long Island suburbs, has been adding to his fame every Sunday as a hard-tackling, ball-hawking defensive halfback for the Giants. They wangled him away from the Redskins, for whom he played as a rookie, in a 1959 spring trade.

Giant Close-Ups

Dick Pesonen

Charles Janerette

Paul Dudley

The Giants acquired Dick Pesonen (25) last spring from the Minnesota Vikings in exchange for Cliff Livingston. A 24-year-old graduate of the University of Minnesota's Duluth Branch, he was signed by the Packers as a free agent in 1960. He went to Minnesota in the players' stocking pool made available to the new NFL entry in 1961. Serviceable at all defensive backfield positions, Dick provides valuable protection.

Charlie Janerette (72) has served the Giants well the past two seasons as a swing lineman. He fills in capably at either tackle on defense and offense and, in fact, can do a sound job just about anywhere up front. The Giants got the 250-pound Penn State alumnus in a 1961 deal with the Vikings, who had claimed him from the Rams in the expansion draft.

When Green Bay, caught in a personnel squeeze, reluctantly let Paul Dudley (23) go in their final cutdown, the Giants joyously jumped at the chance of adding him to their roster. A star all-round performer at Arkansas, the fleet, wiry 185-pound Dudley has the makings of a topnotch running back and pass-receiver. He also knows the ropes on defense. The Giants rate him highly.

Some may stop you, but most of these famous emblems speak for themselves. Take number fifteen. No guesswork there. It's the famous Ballantine 3-Ring Sign! You'll find it wherever folks enjoy great football, because the fun of a game, and the great taste of Ballantine naturally go together. Why not find that out for yourself. Next time, make it Ballantine—the Golden Harvest beer with that special Golden Mellow flavor.

CHAMPION GIANTS

Having just recently retained their World Championship in a thrilling seven game series with another worthy team of Giants (San Francisco baseball variety), the New York Yankees salute the Eastern Conference football champion New York Giants of the National Football League. We wish you a successful defense of your crown and hope, along with Metropolitan fans, that you will bring the pro football title back to New York this year.

We had a long, tough American League campaign before winning out over the National League champion Giants on the final play of one of the most dramatic of World Series. The Yankees are proud, indeed, to have won their 27th American League championship and their record 20th World Series in competition with the best of the National League.

We join fans here at Yankee Stadium today and football Giant fans everywhere in saluting the Maramen of 1962 and wishing Coach Al Sherman and his great team success for the remainder of this season and another championship here in the "Home of Champions".

Andy Robustelli.

Del Shofner

Long noted as the most dangerous deep pass receiver in the NFL, Del Shofner (85) hit peak efficiency with the Giants in 1961. His 68 receptions were good for 1,125 yards, a total that led the league, and he scored 11 TDs. The Giants snagged Del, a 1957 Baylor graduate, in a pre-season deal with the Rams. In combination with Y. A. Tittle, he gave them an offensive boost that helped them win the Eastern title.

Andy Robustelli (81), the Giants' defensive coach, has established himself as one of pro football's greatest defensive ends in 12 seasons of brilliant play with the Los Angeles Rams and the Giants, who acquired him in 1956 in exchange for a future draft choice. Strong, quick and blessed with an uncanny sense of anticipation, Robustelli specializes in harassing enemy passers and in piling up running plays in their inception. A native of Stamford, Conn., where he still makes his home, Andy attended Arnold College, now defunct.
