COACH AL SHERMAN

Giants Salute Giant Fans

ON this last day of the regular season, the Giants on all levels wish to take this opportunity to express their deep appreciation for the loyal support they have received.

This season has been positively fantastic, not only because every game at the Stadium has been a sell-out but even more so because you fans in the stands so obviously have wanted the Giants to win.

Don't think this rooting hasn't helped. In talking about it, and they do frequently, the Giants collectively and individually have said repeatedly that you have helped to put them over the top, as much as anything else.

Your wonderfully enthusiastic backing has given the Giants, most of them New Yorkers by adoption hailing from other parts of the country, a feeling of belonging, an identity—and reason for putting forth extra effort.

There's still a game to play today against the Dallas Cowboys, a rugged foe, and another, tougher, game two weeks from today for the NFL title.

The Giants look forward to both contests. They want you to know that winning eight straight games—a club record—hasn't left them feeling jaded.

The Giants demonstrated how they feel last Sunday when they turned the tables on the Browns. With the Eastern title already in hand, there was no special reason for the Giants to get excited.

But Coach Al Sherman and his team have pride and integrity. They wanted to win — if they could—to show to their fans that they finished on top again on merit, because they were the best, not because of any lucky bounces.

Beating the Browns was the tribute of a champion team to champion fans.

Giant fans, the Giants salute you!

Play-Off Ticket Plans

The National Football League has announced the following plans for the December 30th championship game at Yankee Stadium:

Price scale is $12 for upper or mezzanine box seats; $10 for upper or mezzanine reserved seats; $10 for lower box seats and $8 for lower or open stand reserved seats.

Sale opens 9 a.m. Monday, Dec. 17. The sale will be handled only at the Yankee Stadium and only in person. No tickets will be sold at the Giants Office and no mail orders will be accepted.

Giant season subscribers have been mailed identity cards covering their regular season locations. Subscribers' reservations will be filed at Yankee Stadium alphabetically as the subscriber's name is listed on the Giant season subscription records. Season reservations must be picked up at Yankee Stadium at Gate No. 4 from 9 a.m. on Monday, Dec. 17, until 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 22. Yankee Stadium ticket office hours Monday through Friday are 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

Season subscribers need not be concerned if they cannot be at Yankee Stadium when the sale opens Dec. 17—their tickets will be held until 3 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 22.

Public sale also will be at Yankee Stadium only, beginning on Monday, Dec. 17, and also only in person. No mail orders will be accepted. Public sale will be at Gate No. 6.

Payment must be in cash or by certified check or money order payable to the New York Football Giants, Inc.

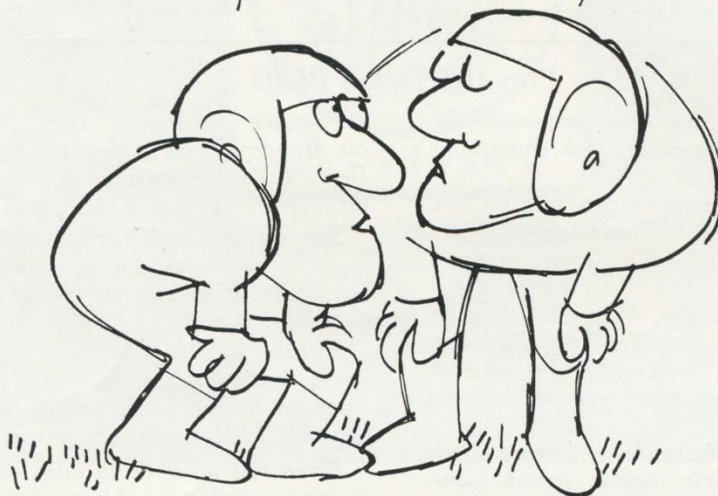

Yankee Stadium parking lot will be available without charge for the purchasers' convenience.

Giant Trouble-Shooter:

Joe Morrison

ONE good reason why the Giants qualify as the football team "that has everything" is the presence on their roster of a young man named Joe Morrison.

Joe's name rarely appears in the starting line-up but before any game ends the chances are he'll have been in action at half a dozen positions.

The 24-year-old University of Cincinnati graduate, now in his fourth season with the Giants, is a coach's dream of a football player. He runs, he passes, he catches passes, he blocks, he tackles, he's a fine kick-returner and, though he hasn't taken a shot at this line of work, anyone who knows him wouldn't want to bet that he wouldn't do a good job of kicking, too.

"There's no doubt about it," says Coach Al Sherman. "Joe comes as close to being the complete football player as you can come."

Paradoxically in this era of super-specialization in pro football, all-around players of Morrison's stripe have added value. His ability to do so many jobs so well creates room on the roster for extra specialists who provide the depth a championship team needs to withstand the rigors of the long pro schedule.

During his career with the Giants, Morrison has played at both half-backs, fullback, flanker back and at both ends on the offensive unit; at left halfback and both safety spots on the defensive unit and at a variety of positions on the special units used for kicking off, receiving kick-offs, punting, receiving punts and place-kicking.

Joe doesn't care what position he plays as long as he's in the ball game. As far as he's concerned, playing football is fun, rather than just a job. This attitude shows in his work. He plays with obvious relish.

While Morrison is no speed merchant (his best time for 100 yards is 10.2 seconds), he has the quickness which is the hallmark of a good open-field runner. He takes short, choppy strides; can change direction on a dime and has splendid balance.

A solidly-built athlete, who packs 212 pounds on his 6-foot 1-inch frame, Morrison also has good blasting power straight ahead. This stands him in good stead when he plays fullback and helps him make his blocks and tackles stick.

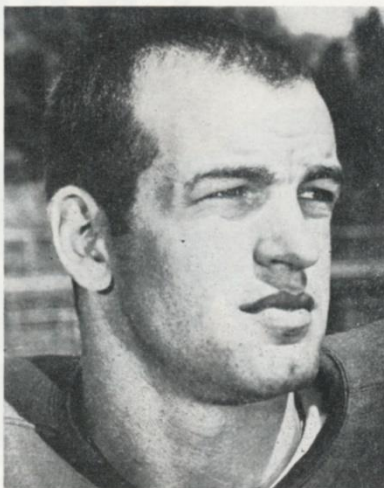

As a pass receiver, he has good moves, sure hands and a nose for the ball. He has the strength to fight clear of rival linebackers on short passes over the line and is fast enough to go deep for long ones.

Morrison was the No. 3 draft choice of the Giants in 1959 after having been a three-season all-Missouri Valley Conference selection at Cincinnati. As a junior and a senior, he was named the most valuable player on the Bearcats and, among other records, he set Cincinnati marks by scoring 128 points and 21 touchdowns during his varsity career.

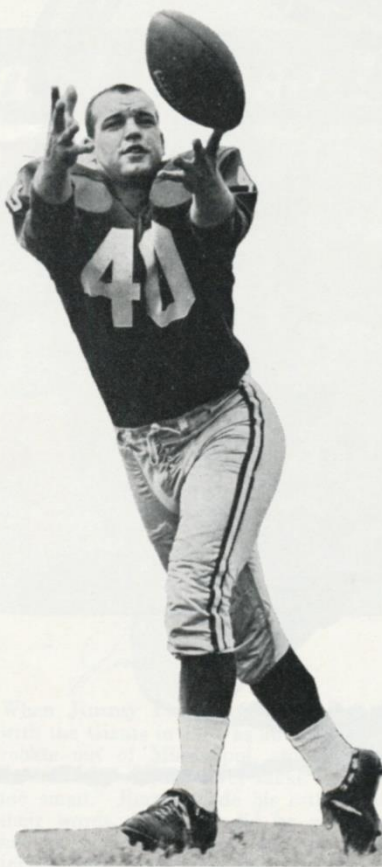

Joe was a versatile player at Cincinnati, too. He put in his first two seasons with the Bearcats as a T-formation quarterback. As a senior, he was shifted to halfback to give wider scope to his varied talents. The move paid off handsomely. As a halfback, Morrison led his team in scoring and ground-gaining and was the No. 1 man in three other statistical departments.

At Cincinnati, Joe also starred in baseball and basketball. He still dabbles in those sports when he isn't occupied with his Giant duties.

Off-season, Morrison works for the Ohio Steel Foundry Company. He's married to the former Barbara McDorman. They have a son, Ricky Joe, now one-and-a-half years old.

Frank Gifford

Don Chandler

Back in Giant harness after a year's absence is Frank Gifford (16). This handsome young man from Bakersfield, Calif., in nine brilliant seasons with the Giants, established himself as a complete football player. Used mainly as an all-purpose half-back before he quit in 1960, Giff, this second time around, will play mostly on the flank. Few can play it better. But it won't be a shock if he bobs up somewhere else. He can do it all.

Giant fans are seeing Don Chandler (34) in a new role this season. Besides handling the punting assignment, which he has done admirably for six years, the strong-legged Florida graduate has taken over the place-kicking chores abandoned by the retired Pat Summerall. Don is doing better than just all right at his additional new job. He's getting both distance and direction on his placements.

Giant Close-Ups

Ken Byers

In their quest for added line depth, the Giants made Ken Byers (60) their No. 7 choice in last winter's draft. The 240-pound Cincinnati graduate has proved to be a valuable acquisition. Primarily a tackle in college, Ken is serviceable anywhere on the defensive rushline and also can be used as a linebacker or up front on offense.

Jimmy Patton

When Jimmy Patton (20) tried out with the Giants in 1955 as an 180-pound rookie out of Mississippi, sideline observers said: "He'll never make it; he's too small." Jimmy made his critics eat their words. Not only did he make it but he made it big from the start and for the last 5 years has been the NFL's acknowledged top all-around safetyman. Patton not only knows how to make all the plays but knows why and when to make them, for which reason he has served as a playing coach the last three seasons.

Allan Webb

Signed last year as a free agent, Allan Webb (21) has done a terrific job for the Giants, as a spare running back, a reserve defensive back and now as the defensive unit's regular left safetyman. Like Andy Robustelli a graduate of little Arnold College, now defunct, Webb kept active in football as a sand-lotter waiting for the big chance that finally came in 1961. During the off-season he serves as recreation director for the Connecticut State prison.

Warning: icy roads ahead...bad weather...more driving after dark. This is no time to be without seat belts.

Have a Chevron Dealer put them in your car this week. Cost? $5.95 each, installed free.

Accidents do happen. When they do, seat belts save lives, cut injuries. That's why we urge you to get belts...and use them.

Is your car ready for winter driving? Unless it's equipped with seat belts, the answer is a firm "no." Why? The majority of serious automobile injuries occur at less than 40 mph, and within 25 miles of home. That's just the kind of driving you'll probably be doing a lot of this winter... plenty of it on slippery roads.

Many people have paid $12.95 each for the same belts that most Chevron Dealers are offering for only $5.95. The belts are made by Davis Aircraft Products of 100% Caprolan® nylon, with adjustable, quick-opening buckles of strong aircraft aluminum. They exceed all known automotive safety standards—including the tough GSA requirements set by the U.S. Government.

If you don't have belts in your car, by all means have them installed before winter sets in. This week would be better than next. See your Chevron Dealer.

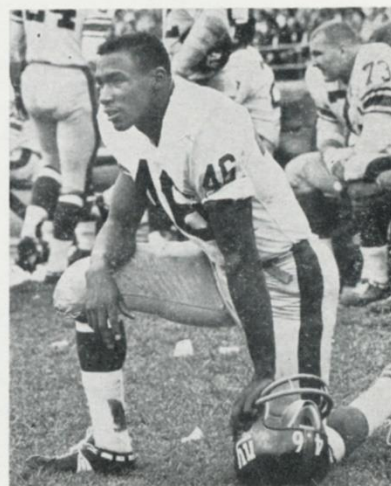

At the sign of the CHEVRON we take better care of your car

Best Plays of the Year 1962

A Documentary of Pro Football in the National Football League

A Terrific New Book!

Announcing an important new annual book—Best Plays of the Year 1962: A documentary of Pro Football in the National League by Robert Riger. This picture record of the 1962 NFL season will go on sale for the first time anywhere at Yankee Stadium the day of the championship game, Dec. 30.

All the best plays of the fourteen Sundays are in this wonderful picture book—East and West; the Packer-Lion 9-7 game and their Thanksgiving Day classic; Y. A. Tittle's record seven-touchdown game against the Redskins—all in exclusive pictures and drawings by Robert Riger, pro-football's top picture reporter.

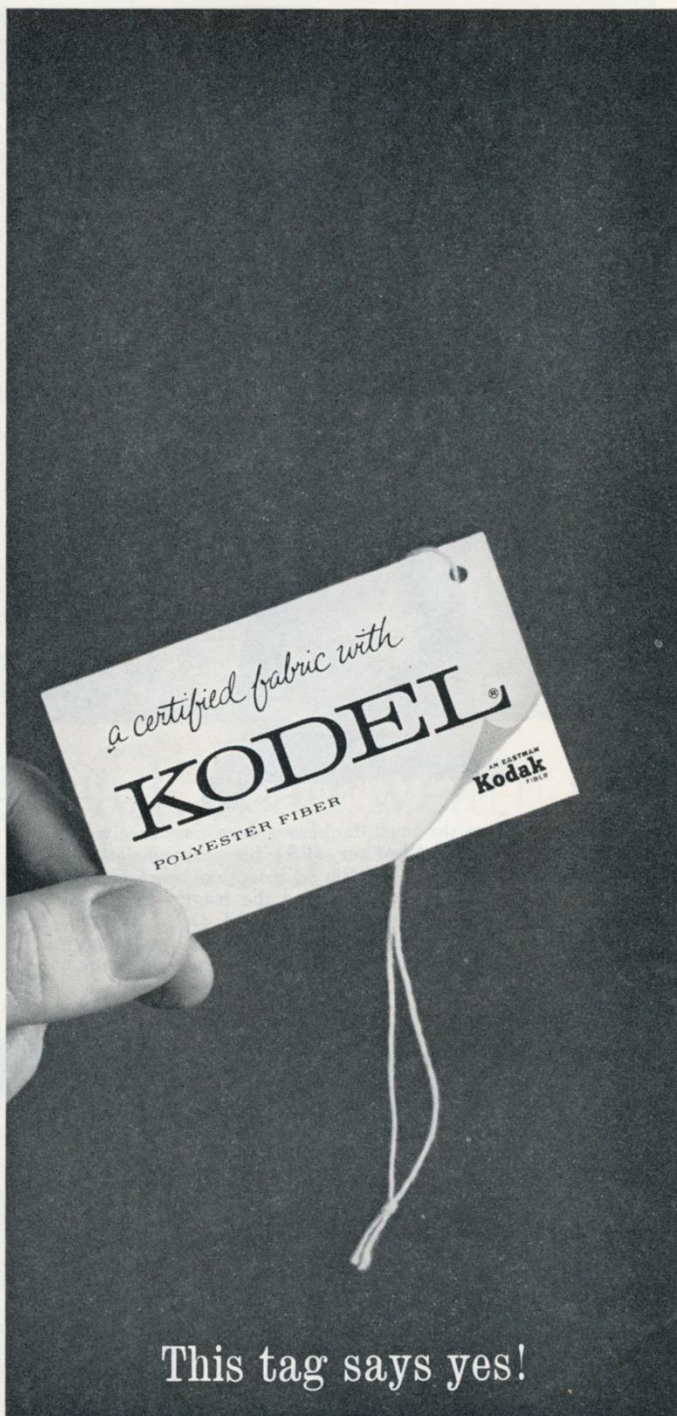

Featured are four beautiful full page lithograph drawings, suitable for framing like the one Riger did on the cover of this week's Giant program.

The book is printed on fine quality paper and contains close to 150 photographs and drawings, with many pictures measuring 17½" x 11" inches. Published by Prentice-Hall, it is modestly priced at $2.00. Be sure to buy a copy.

Ray Wietecha

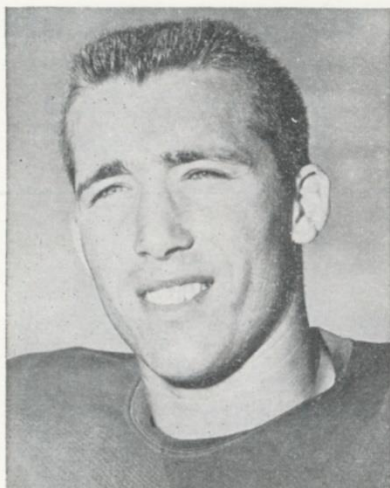

Y. A. Tittle

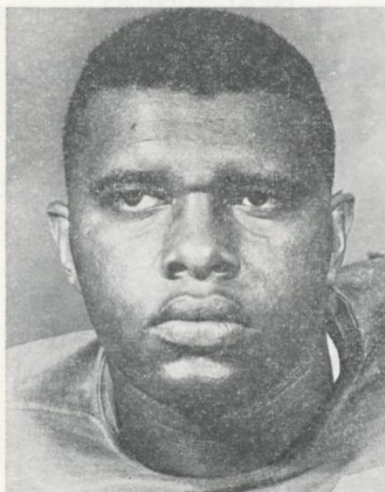

Y. A. Tittle (14) is the NFL's senior quarterback at 35 years old, but one would never guess it to watch him in sprightly action. Acquired from the 49ers in a pre-season 1961 trade, Y. A. paced the Giants to the Eastern title with his thread-needle passing and fiery leadership. Going into his 14th pro season, he had completed 1,859 passes—tops in the game.

No center in football, say the Giants, can execute the blocking assignments that Ray Wietecha (55) carries out with practiced ease. The rugged 225-pound Northwestern graduate has fantastic lateral range. Ray also is the iron man of the Giants. Going into this season, he had played in 118 consecutive games and never had missed a minute of offensive play because of injury.

Giant Close-Ups

Aaron Thomas

Charles Janerette

Paul Dudley

For insurance against injuries to Del Shofner and Frank Gifford, their prime deep pass receivers, the Giants got big Aaron Thomas (88) from the 49ers early this season in exchange for Bob Gaiters. The 6-foot-3, 208-pound Oregon State graduate, who hauled down 15 passes for 301 yards as a 1961 rookie with San Francisco, can go get 'em.

Charlie Janerette (72) has served the Giants well the past two seasons as a swing lineman. He fills in capably at either tackle on defense and offense and, in fact, can do a sound job just about anywhere up front. The Giants got the 250-pound Penn State alumnus in a 1961 deal with the Vikings, who had claimed him from the Rams in the expansion draft.

When Green Bay, caught in a personnel squeeze, reluctantly let Paul Dudley (23) go in their final cutdown, the Giants joyously jumped at the chance of adding him to their roster. A star all-round performer at Arkansas, the fleet, wiry 185-pound Dudley has the makings of a topnotch running back and pass-receiver. He also knows the ropes on defense. The Giants rate him highly.

Howard Award To "Big Red"?

UNLESS there has been a tremendous upsurge in voting for another nominee, the 1962 Howard Award appears to be clinched by Alex Webster. At press time, "Big Red" held an insurmountable lead in the Giant MVP balloting held at all 40 Howard Clothes stores in the New York area.

If the winner is Alex Webster, he will accomplish what the award sponsors tried to avert by ruling last year's winner, Y. A. Tittle, ineligible for the 1962 award. The Howard Award consists of a trophy AND a 1963 Owens Family Cruiser valued at over $5,000. What could anyone do with two boats?

That's a question that Alex may have to answer for himself. Last month, Radio Station WNEW presented Webster with an 18-foot outboard runabout at his testimonial dinner. With his brand new 24-foot Owens inboard skiff, Admiral Alex will be the owner of a cumulative 42 feet of assorted boats.

In the pre-game ceremony today, Kyle Rote takes to the public address microphone as master of ceremonies, in which capacity he will introduce Andrew Brancato, vice president of Howard Clothes; John Purcell, general manager of Owens Yachts, and the recipient of the 1962 Howard Award as determined by the month-long public poll.

Based on the vote tally at press time, it's our guess that Alex Webster will be hunting for extra dock space on his off-day tomorrow.

(If you missed the presentation, WNEW will re-broadcast the ceremony later today.)

Giant Close-Ups

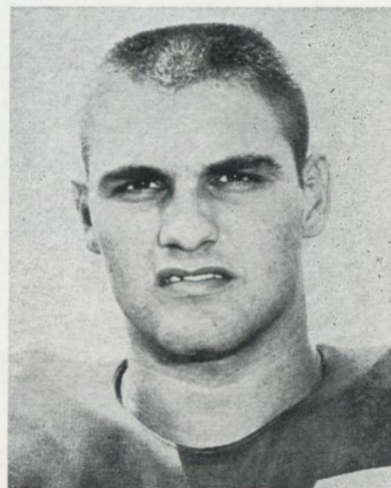

Dick Pesonen

The Giants acquired Dick Pesonen (25) last spring from the Minnesota Vikings in exchange for Cliff Livingston. A 24-year-old graduate of the University of Minnesota's Duluth Branch, he was signed by the Packers as a free agent in 1960. He went to Minnesota in the players' stocking pool made available to the new NFL entry in 1961. Serviceable at all defensive backfield positions, Dick provides valuable protection.

Jim Katcavage

In 1961, Jim Katcavage (75) won all-league acclaim as a defensive end from both the AP and UPI. He thereby gained public credit for an honor Giant insiders felt he has deserved for several years. A Philadelphia native who attended Dayton University, the Big Kat was a No. 4 draft choice in 1956. He won a starting job almost immediately, was a big factor in helping the Giants win the world championship and has been a key rushliner ever since.

Jim Collier

Among the several fine rookies the Giants have added to their roster this season is Jim Collier (84). This swift, rangy end from Arkansas has displayed rare first-year ability to go and get that football. As he gets to know the Giant pass patterns better, you'll be seeing more of him. Jim has all the requisites of a good pro end—size, speed, and good hands, desire and intelligence.

The Giants choose United Air Lines for team travel

Most professional athletic teams—such as the New York Giants—choose United for their team travel. One reason: schedule convenience. United flies more jets . . . more often . . . to more cities . . . than any other airline.

But an even more important reason to choose United is the Extra Care we take with every detail of every trip.

So next time you travel—for business or pleasure—fly United, the Extra Care airline offering the most jets to the most U.S. cities.

WORLD'S LARGEST JET FLEET

THE EXTRA CARE AIRLINE

DON Chandler is closing in on a couple of all-time Giant records. The Bootin' Beauty needs to score only four more points to surpass the Giant one-season mark of 102 points set by Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts in 1949. One more field goal would put Don in a tie with Pat Summerall for the Giant one-season record of 20 fielders.

Andy Robustelli, the Giants' playing defensive coach, did a little counting on his fingers the other day and discovered, somewhat to his surprise, that he had played in 133 consecutive NFL games. This includes his service with the Los Angeles Rams, for whom Andy played five years before being traded to the Giants for a future draft choice in 1956. The Giants, therefore, have two of pro football's outstanding "iron men." Snapper Ray Wietecha has played 131 straight games—all for the Giants.

Roosevelt Brown, the Giants' superlative offensive tackle, has been enshrined in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' football Hall of Fame. Rosy received his scroll at the Stadium last Sunday from Henry Schmidt, the NAIA chairman from this district. Copies of the scroll will be presented to Morgan State University of Baltimore, where Brown played his college football, and to the Giants, with whom Rosy has added no little to his fame.

The full Giant draft list wasn't yet available when last week's program went to press. So, to bring you up to date, the choices after round nine were as follows: 10th round, Mike Taliaferro, Illinois back; 11th round, Don McKinnon, Dartmouth center; 12th round, Ed Adamcik, Pittsburgh guard; 13th round, Jim Moss, West Virginia back; 14th round, Joe Williams, Iowa back; 15th round, Lane Howell, Grambling center; 16th round, Charles Killett, Memphis State back; 17th round, Robert McAdams, North Carolina College tackle; 18th round, Bill Pashe, George Washington back; 19th round, Junius Buchanan, Grambling tackle; 20th round, Homer Jones, Texas Southern.

Several of these boys are worthy of special mention. McKinnon, whose linebacking and blocking at center contributed importantly to Dartmouth's undefeated, untied record, made several All-America teams. Williams, a New Jersey boy, was one of the most devastating runners in the Big Ten in 1960 and 1961 and performed well in Canada this season after being ruled scholastically ineligible by Iowa. Jones is a 9.3-second 100-yard dashman who ran on the United States' winning 400-meter relay team in last summer's dual meet with the Soviet Union. Jones, and Buchanan, admittedly are speculative choices as they have indicated their intention of signing with the Houston Oilers.

Today's between-the-halves entertainment will be supplied by the crack marching band and Pershing Rifle drill team of the New York State Maritime Academy of Fort Schuyler.

Looking Over:

The Cowboys

EDDIE LeBARON

OUR old Giant friend, Tom Landry, has done a tremendous job of making the Cowboys competitive in his three years in charge of this new National League entry.

In Dallas' first season of 1960, Tom suffered through a winless 0-11-1 campaign (the tie was with the Giants). Last year, the Cowboys improved to 4-9-1. This season, with final returns still to come, they are going to do a lot better.

There still are holes to fill in the Dallas roster, but nevertheless Landry has come up with an offensive unit that gives fits to its opponents and a defensive eleven that, while still vulnerable, isn't easy to trample on.

At the key quarterback position, the Cowboys are fortunate in having two effective operatives. Alternating there are Eddie LeBaron, one of the NFL's established stars, and Don Meredith, a rising great. Landry has been running them in and out of the line-up, carrying plays from the bench, in the manner of Cleveland's shuttling guards. The system has worked.

The Cowboys get good passing from both LeBaron and Meredith, mainly to Billy Howton, a long-time artful dodger on short-gainers; to Frank Clarke, one of the league's top breakaway threats, and to Lee Folkins, a new, young tight end who shows great promise.

But, even more than their passing, the Cowboys' running commands respect. They have two real firebrands behind the ball in Don Perkins and Amos Marsh and a topflight relief for them in J. W. Lockett. These three guys all have speed and power.

In front of them is a young offensive line that improves every time out. Mike Connelly, at center, is as good as they come, in Landry's book. The guards, Dale Memmelaar and Andy Cvercko, are rated superior, too, and the tackles, Monte Clark and Bob Fry get the job done also.

All in all, Dallas has an extremely well-balanced offensive unit. Rivals have to play honest defense against the Cowboys. They have a knockout wallop on the ground, pass well, and have a topflight combination kicker in Sam Baker.

As a player and as a coach with the Giants, defense was Landry's forte. Tom, a perfectionist, is far from being satisfied yet with

DON MEREDITH

Dallas' ability to contain the opposition. But the Cowboys are getting there.

The rookie George Andrie has had a fine season at right end and a couple of other first-year pros, Guy Reese and John Meyers, have added firepower to the rushline.

Mike Dowdle and Chuck Howley, both seasoned, provide linebacking support for Tubbs, who rates close to Detroit's Joe Schmidt, Chicago's Bill George and New York's Sam Huff as a middle linebacker.

In the deep secondary, the experienced Norton and Bishop, a rising star, have as companions two bright rookie prospects, Mike Gaechter, at left safety, and Cornell Green, on the left corner.

With five first-year starters on its defensive unit, Dallas makes errors here and there. And the offensive team could stand polishing in spots.

But the Cowboys have made sensational progress and definitely are a team to watch the next couple of years.

Series Review

THE Dallas Cowboys are the Giants' newest NFL foes, the teams first having met in 1960, but the young rivalry already has produced a full quota of excitement.

The series started off with a loud bang two years ago when the newly-organized Cowboys, who hadn't won any of their ten previous games, galloped into the Stadium breathing defiance and held the Giants to a shocking 31-31 tie.

In the second meeting between the clubs at Dallas last year, the Cowboys again had the Giants lassoed in a tie. Then the New Yorkers unleashed a couple of bolts out of the blue to make off with a 31-10 decision. Don Chandler hurled bolt No. 1 by breaking loose on a fourth-down fake-punt dash that set up the lead touchdown. Erich Barnes hurled bolt No. 2 by sprinting a record-tying 102 yards to a touchdown on a pass interception.

A couple of weeks later in the Stadium, the Cowboys caught the Giants off guard and nipped them, 17-16. This victory over the 1961 Eastern champions represented a high-water mark of achievement for the team from Texas.

The Cowboys had visions of making it two in a row over the Giants—in fact, they had visions of spiriting away the Giants' title—when the teams squared off for the fourth time at Dallas last Nov. 11. The Texans were brought rudely back to reality. In their most devastating performance of the season, the Giants lowered the boom on the Cowboys, 41-10.

In the wake of this rout, the Cowboys can be counted on to arrive at the Stadium in a surly mood. Off past New York-Dallas developments, lively action is indicated on the field.

Joe Walton

Tom Scott, an All-American selection in lacrosse as well as in football at the University of Virginia is a battle-tempered gridiron pro who has done a tremendous job for the Giants since his acquisition from the Eagles in 1959. One of the NFL's top defensive ends when the 5-man line still was in vogue. Tom performs equally well on the flank and as a corner linebacker. He has taken over at the latter spot as a regular this year.

In his quiet, efficient way, Joe Walton (80) does a whale of a job for the Giants at the tight end spot on attack. Although the black-haired Pitt graduate is not particularly big at 205 pounds, he blocks tellingly. And, although he's no speed demon, he has the knack of breaking clear for key catches. The Giants got Joe from the Redskins before the 1961 season.

Giant Close-Ups

Roosevelt Brown

Andy Robustelli

Andy Robustelli (81), the Giants' defensive coach, has established himself as one of pro football's greatest defensive ends in 12 seasons of brilliant play with the Los Angeles Rams and the Giants, who acquired him in 1956 in exchange for a future draft choice. Strong, quick and blessed with an uncanny sense of anticipation, Robustelli specializes in harassing enemy passers and in piling up running plays in their inception. A native of Stamford, Conn., where he still makes his home, Andy attended Arnold College, now defunct.

Back in 1953, the Giants took a flyer in the 27th round of the NFL draft on a rawboned young tackle from little Morgan State College named Roosevelt Brown (79). History has proved the selection to be inspired. By 1954 Rosie was solidly entrenched as an offensive starter at left tackle and since 1955, he has been an all-league. A fast-moving 260-pounder, Brown blocks dynamically, on the line and down-field. He also pitches in on goal-line defense.

KNOW YOUR FOOTBALL?

HOW MANY INSIGNIA CAN YOU IDENTIFY?

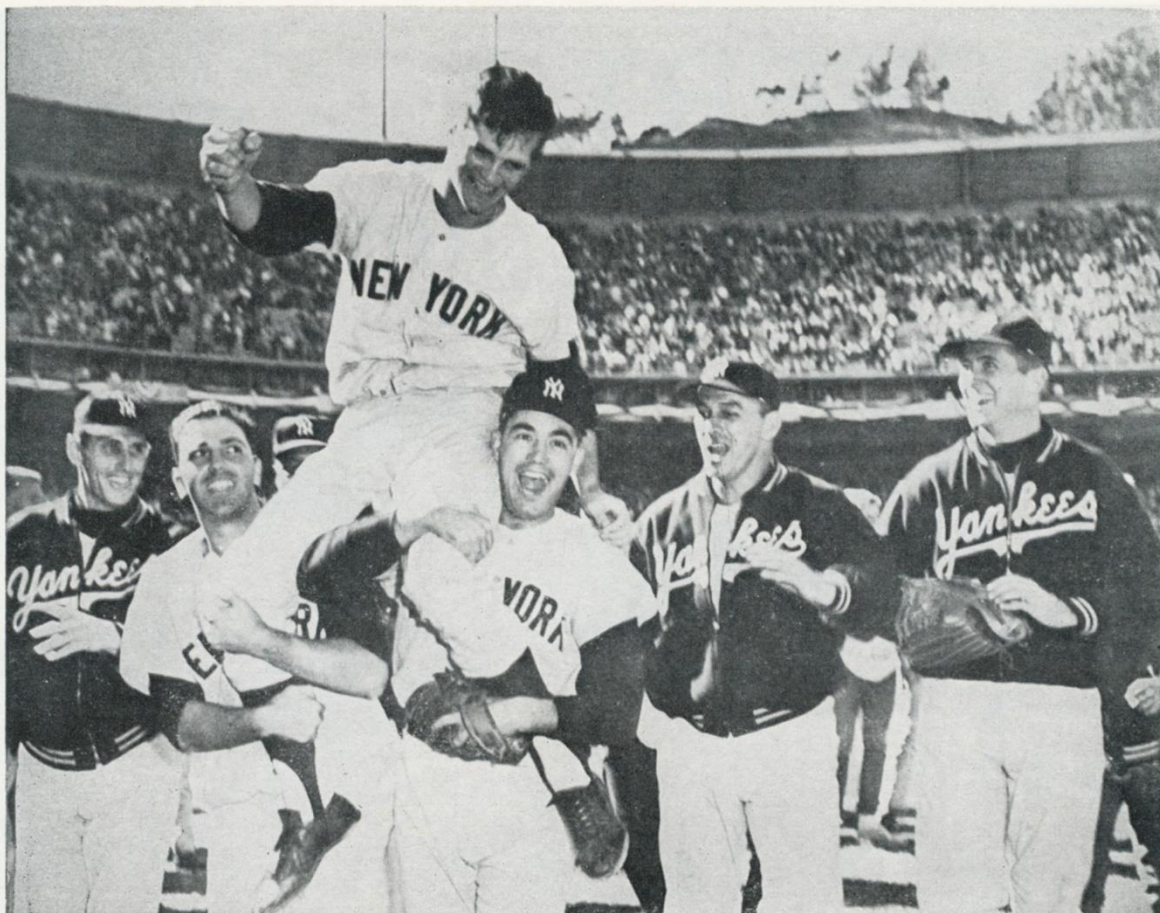

Some may stop you, but most of these famous emblems speak for themselves. Take number fifteen. No guesswork there. It's the famous Ballantine 3-Ring Sign! You'll find it wherever folks enjoy great football, because the fun of a game, and the great taste of Ballantine naturally go together. Why not find that out for yourself. Next time, make it Ballantine—the Golden Harvest beer with that special Golden Mellow flavor.

Philadelphia Eagles 11. Pittsburgh Steelers 12. Baltimore Colts 13. Detroit Lions 14. New York Giants 15. Aw, come on now!

P. BALLANTINE & SONS, NEWARK, N. J.

Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants lined to Bobby Richardson and the thrilling 1962 World Series was over. Ralph Terry had pitched the Yankees to their 20th World Championship, and his joyous teammates carried him off the field. But they'll be back in April with more excitement and more thrills. Why not take advantage of the Yankees' COMBINATION TICKET PLAN which entitles you to the same choice seat for 46 big games on 36 dates as well as the opportunity to obtain World Series tickets if the Yankees successfully defend their crown?

Spectators and players alike enjoy the "extra points" of NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE SLACKS

Both arm-chair athletes and players alike go for slacks made from Official National Football League Slack fabric. They're "built" for action living. Offer the wearer a real "pro" performance in looks, too, because these slacks keep their pressed look wearing after wearing...require a minimum of care. And...only Stevens Consort blend of Orlon® acrylic and wool offers warmth without weight for maximum wearing comfort. Why not make it a point to see them at leading stores listed on this page.

Bill Winter

The Giants think they have come up with a real "find" in Bill Winter (31). Although he was only an 18th round choice in the 1962 college draft, Winter won regular rating in pre-season training and has firmly established himself at left linebacker. A hard-hitting 220-pounder who moves fast, Bill won eight major letters in football, baseball and basketball at little St. Olaf College.

Darrell Dess

Darrell Dess (62) came to the Giants in 1959 via the Washington Redskins and Pittsburgh Steelers. Since joining the club, the stocky 235-pound graduate of North Carolina State has been a starter more often than not at left guard on the offensive unit. A wrestling star in college, he has the strength and weight to make his blocks stick and the speed of foot to get out ahead of the ball-carrier on wide plays.
