Still Alive...and Kicking

Comeback Victory over Cowboys Keeps Giants in Fight

THANKS to that magnificent second-half comeback in Dallas last Sunday, our Giants are still alive . . . and kicking . . . in this dizziest of all competitive merry-go-rounds for the National Football League's Eastern title.

And in passing—with all due respect to the ineffable Y. A. Tittle, who bagged another NFL career record by pitching his 196th and 197th touchdown tosses against the Cowboys—let it be said that kicking largely carried the day for the Giants.

Don Chandler, the balding Babe from Oklahoma, provided that precious commodity. Don's 11 and 53-yard field goals early in the fourth quarter put the Giants, who had entered the period on the defensive, with a 27-21 deficit, back into the relative security of a tie, from which they were able to strike out boldly for "the whole ball of wax."

That 53-yarder, incidentally, was the longest ever kicked by a Giant, who always have had great place-kickers—from Bo Molanda, to Ken Strong, to Ward Cuff, to Ben Agajanian, to Pat Summerall and to Chandler. The previous high was Agajanian's 50-yarder in 1950.

Fact is, only two longer field goals have been kicked in the 44-year history of the NFL—a 56-yarder by Bert Rechichar of Balti-

Allie Sherman, the Giant coach, is an eyes-wide-open realist. His thoughts on the situation can be summed up about like this:

"I'm not smart, or silly, enough to figure out, or worry about, all the ifs, ands and buts. But I do know this much. If we can beat the Redskins today and the Steelers next Sunday, we won't have a thing to worry about—except maybe a play-off with the Browns—and we'll worry about that when, and if, it becomes necessary."

The man has something there, and we go along with him all the way.

Meanwhile, we'll bring up again the point that the Giants are fortunate in having in their ranks so many old pros (and we use "old" in the most complimentary sense) who don't wither under pressure.

Teams like the Cowboys (and, perhaps, the Redskins, today) may be out of it themselves. But they have the ability to give anyone fits, when they dedicate themselves to the task, as Tom Landry's Dallas team obviously did.

It's a mark of greatness to weather these sudden, surprise storms and come back roaring, as the Giants did last Sunday.

Hats off to them! We hopefully look forward to more of the same.

more against the Bears in 1953 and a 54-yarder by Glenn Presnell of Detroit against the Packers way back in 1954.

The victory left the Giants in a first-place tie, at 9-3, with the resurgent Browns, who plucked the Cardinals, 21-10. St. Louis, a party to a three-way deadlock with the Giants and Browns going into last Sunday's frenetic action, dropped into a third-place tie, at 8-4, with the Steelers, 6-3-3 after their 20-20 dead heat with the Eagles.

What's going to happen now? You tell us. Even with only two games each to play for the interested parties, the possibilities are too complex to detail in the space available here.

To Jimmy Patton!

THEY'RE having a "do" for Jimmy Patton tonight at Laddin's Terrace in Stamford, Conn. All Giant fans owe a debt to Bill De Leo and Patton's other Connecticut friends and neighbors for putting on this party for the little guy from Mississippi who has played such a big role in the recent success of the Giants.

Among the football pros, they'll tell you that no one plays, or ever has played, the "free" safety spot as well as Jimmy Patton. The "free" safety, who plays the side away from the offensive tight end, is the rover or back-up man of the deep secondary. He has no primary man-to-man pass-coverage assignment. Rather he takes on the greater responsibility of rushing to the rescue where help is most urgently needed.

With his speed of foot, his trigger-quick reactions, his keen intuition and his blazing competitive spirit, Patton gets this important job done with marvelous efficiency.

The amazing thing is that Patton nearly didn't make it at all with the Giants. He reported to ex-Coach Jim Lee Howell in 1955 with a glowing reputation as a star defensive back and deadly tackler at the University of Mississippi.

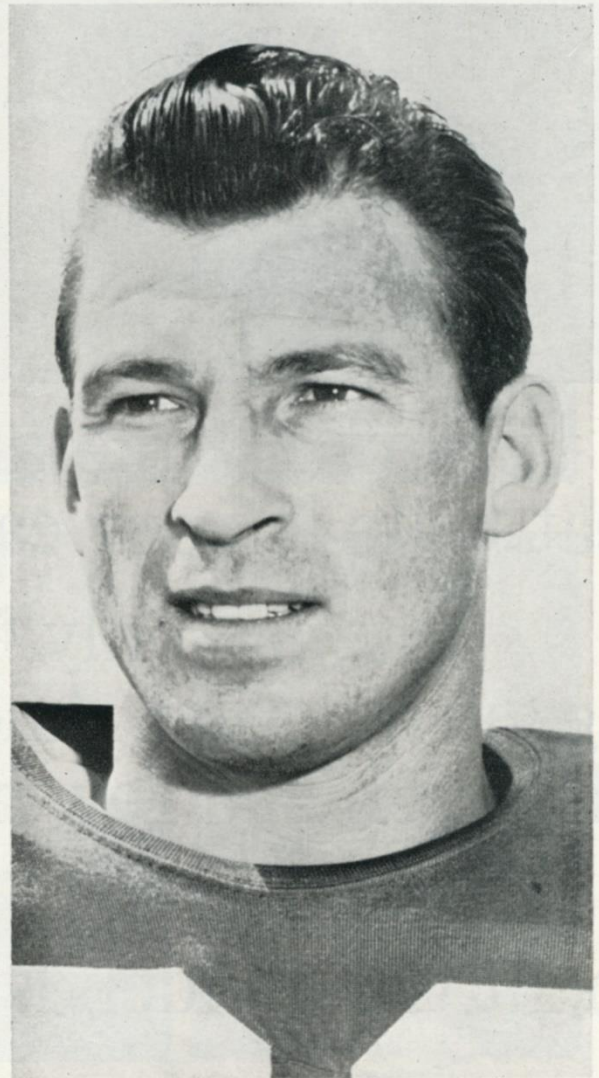

But though he was a mere peanut in size by pro standards at 5 feet 10 inches and 175 pounds, he also brought along a "bigger they are, the harder they fall" philosophy that almost cost him his chance.

Intent on proving he could hog tie the biggest, meanest backs the NFL had to offer, Patton in early scrimmages with the Giants would stand his ground and meet 200-pounds-plus ball-carriers head on. More often than not, Jimmy brought his man down. But little by little, those bone-jarring collisions were taking him apart by the seams.

"Patton certainly didn't lack courage, but he just didn't have the size to bang those big guys without getting hurt," recalls Howell.

It took time but, Jim Lee went on to say, "Finally we convinced Jimmy he could tackle from an angle—not exposing his body to direct impact—and get the same results."

So, eventually, Patton became a "cutie." Today he can drop an on-rushing fullback without even getting his hair mussed. And his nick-of-time coverage, particularly on deep passes, is a watchword around the league.

For the last few seasons, Jimmy has been doubling with the Giants as a coach. It's a tribute to his rare ability that his performance as a player hasn't suffered one whit.

He explains it this way: "My coaching is a weekday thing. On Sundays, I concentrate on playing. That's more fun."

The exuberant way he plays it, football obviously is fun for Jimmy Patton. And we all thank him for making it more fun for us, too.

Isn't it time a Chevron Dealer put seat belts in your car?

You pay only $5.95 per belt, including installation. And he can handle the whole job in a few minutes.

Such a small investment. But think about the dividends.

Did you pass a Chevron Station on the way to the game? Then stop there on the way back. Your Dealer will make arrangements to install belts in your car this week — and he'll explain why the National Safety Council believes they belong in every car.

The belts your Chevron Dealer is offering are made by Davis Aircraft of rugged, 100% nylon. They have strong, two-piece metal buckles that can be opened instantly with one hand. The belts are lightweight, comfortable, fully adjustable. They exceed all SAE standards, and even meet the tough GSA requirements established by the U.S. government.

If you haven't had belts installed yet, have it done at a Chevron Station. And while you're there, be sure to ask your Chevron Dealer to fill your tank with Chevron Supreme — the great super-premium gasoline for "top-form" performance.

DEFENSE, the coaches will tell you, is the sine qua non of success in pro football. Reliable defensive performance is particularly important in the back line of the secondary, where there is no margin for error and where any mistake almost has to be fatal. On the corners and in the safety slots, the Giants have men who commit a minimum of errors. Erich Barnes, on the left corner, and Dick Lynch, on the right, are vigilant, far-ranging pass defenders with the speed and savvy to keep pace with the most artful dodgers of the flanker set. At safety, player coach Jimmy Patton, on the right side, has been the league's best at that position for his nine years as a Giant and Allan Webb, on the left, has learned fast since breaking in as a regular last year. Supporting this starting quartet are two seasoned pros, Dick Pesonen and Eddie Dove, both fast and knowing, too. Individually and as a unit, the Giant deep defenders leave little to be desired.

PRO offensive linemen carry the heavy burden of having to rout out king-sized defensive linemen on running plays and shield their quarterback from enemy assault on passing plays. It takes size, speed, agility and a lot of know-how to discharge these duties effectively. The Giants' offensive line is anchored at the tackles by two great old pros—trigger-quick Roosevelt Brown on the left side and deep-chested Jack Stroud on the right. Between them are Darrell Dess, who in the last two seasons has developed into one of the league's best left guards; Greg Larson, a rising youngster who was shifted to center this season with the departure of Ray Wietecha, and Bookie Bolin, a sophomore pro who has taken over at right guard after sitting out most of his rookie season with injuries. Available for fill-in duty at guard are a couple of other upcoming young players—Ken Byers and Mickey Walker. The rookies, Lou Kirouac and Lane Howell, also figure in the picture as spare tackles.

JOHN HENRY JOHNSON

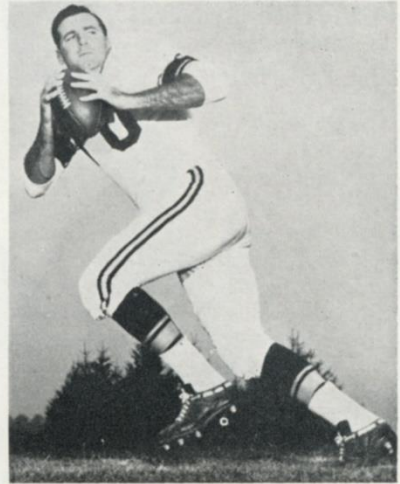

THE next, and last scheduled, game for the Giants will be the return go with the Pittsburgh Steelers here at the Stadium next Sunday. This should be something extra as a contest. The Giants still rankle at the 31-0 defeat they suffered at the hands of the Steelers in Pittsburgh on the season's second playing date. Y. A. Tittle had to sit that one out with injuries, which certainly didn't help the Giant cause. But there's no gainsaying the fact that the Steelers gave our boys a thorough going over.

Coach Buddy Parker's hard-bitten crew still has visions of Pittsburgh's first NFL title and will be here to do something about it. With the Giants equally dedicated to retaining their Eastern honors, the leather figures to pop out there on the field next Sunday.

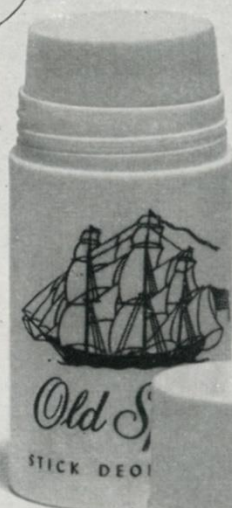

ED BROWN

Pittsburgh's attack revolves around the passing of Ed Brown to Buddy Dial, Red Mack, Gary Ballman and Preston Carpenter, the running of the mercurial John Henry Johnson and rising Dick Hoak and the place-kicking of Lou Michaels. The Steelers' defense, traditionally tough, has star performers in Mike Pottios, at linebacker, and Lou Cordileone, a former Giant, at tackle.

Giant Jottings

THE Giants presented last Sunday's game ball to Ed Kolman, their popular line coach who is convalescing from the mild heart attack he suffered during the game with the Cardinals here two weeks ago. No one is more deserving of such an award, last week or any week, than Big Ed, whose patient, enlightened teaching helped to develop such established Giant line stars as Jack Stroud, Rosey Brown, Darrell Dess and Greg Larson and such up-and-coming youngsters as Mickey Walker, Bookie Bolin, Ken Byers, Lou Kirouac and Lane Howell.

ED KOLMAN

Today's between-the-halves entertainment will be provided by the marching band of North Carolina College of Durham, N. C. This crack outfit, directed by Richard H. L. Jones, has been a smash hit in its previous appearances at the Stadium. We have no advance scouting reports on NCC's game plan for today but, if it plays to form, it will present the highest-stepping drum majors you ever have seen.

Four Giants are in hot contention for NFL statistical titles.

Heading the list, of course, is Y. A. Tittle. He leads the passers in overall performance and three major categories—completion percentage (60.8), touchdown passes (31) and percent of interceptions (2.8). Any day now, hopefully even today, Tittle will surpass his 1962 NFL season record of 33 TD passes. Colonel Slick, already the possessor of the NFL career mark for pass completions made another entry in the book last week at Dallas by notching his 197th TD pass, eclipsing Bobby Layne's listed career record of 196. The other Giant statistical title contenders are Del Shofner, who stands second in pass receptions, with 58 for 1045 yards to Bobby Joe Conrad of St. Louis, who has 60 for 763; Don Chandler, who stands second, with 89 points, to Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, who has 90 points, in the scoring race, and Dick Lynch, who is tied for third in pass interceptions, with 6.

Frank Gifford made another impossible touchdown catch against the Cowboys. After a slow start, the slick veteran flanker has come on to have one of his greatest years. For making "the big play," they don't come any better than Giff... Hats off, too, to Jerry Hillebrand for his tremendous linebacking in the last few games. The big Coloradoan got a delayed chance to show his stuff when Bill Winter banged up a knee and has been going so well that Winter, the Giants' 1962 rookie-of-the-year, hasn't been able to fight his way back into the line-up.

A STALWART defense has been the bedrock of the current era of Giant ascendancy in the National League's Eastern Conference—an era which began back in 1956. It was in that season that the great Giant rushline was formed. Three original members of the fearsome Front Four remain—Andy Robustelli, now defensive captain and a player coach; Dick (Little Mo) Modzelewski and Jim Katcavage, initially a handyman reserve. These hardy pioneer survivors of one of the gridiron's most formidable frontal firing lines have been joined this season by John LoVetere, a 285-pound passer-rushing terror who was acquired from the Los Angeles Rams in exchange for Roosevelt Grier, and Lane Howell and Bob Taylor, rookies who, as spares, have exhibited the same destructive instincts as their seasoned fellow Giant frontiersmen. Big, strong, fast and knowing, these intractable Giants of the rushline relentlessly carry the fight to the foe. To them belongs much of the credit for the success the Giants have enjoyed over most of the past decade.

FOLLOWERS of the Giants are poignantly aware that the pass is the New York team's most lethal offensive weapon. But, although from what you read you might sometimes think it, the Giants don't get their aerial touchdowns simply as the result of Y. A. Tittle's launching spirals into the empty air. As he would be the first to admit, the admirable YAT has an admirable set of receivers. Del Shofner and Frank Gifford, the Giant flankers, are geniuses at getting loose for breakaway gains down the deep middle and on those short but vital first-down tosses to the sidelines. Joe Walton, the unsung Giant tight end, also has a rare knack of getting to the right spot at the right time and Aaron Thomas, who spells all three, is developing the same instincts. The Giant inside backs—Alex Webster, Phil King, Hugh McElhenny and Joe Morrison, who also plays on the flank when needed—are gifted receivers, too. As much as any team in football, the Giants are equipped to inundate the defense with flood pass patterns.

The Redskins

THE Redskins rate as one of the new emerging forces of the National Football League. On the downgrade since the mid-50's, they bottomed out in 1960-61, with just one victory in each of those years.

Now Bill McPeak, at 37 one of the youngest head coaches in pro football, has them on the rise. As a result of McPeak's patient rebuilding efforts, the Redskins won five games and tied two last season. They will fall slightly short of that mark this year but their further improvement is indicated by generally closer scores. On any given day, they are capable of defeating any opponent.

Washington's chief strength lies in its aerial game. The Redskins have one of football's best young passers in Norm Snead, now in his third season as a regular. An augmented receiving corps qualifies as one of the best in the business. It features the mercurial Bobby Mitchell, who led the league in pass-catching last year and is in contention for a second straight title. Other prime Snead targets are big Pat Richter, the rookie tight end from Wisconsin; Jim Collier, the former Giant who plays behind Richter; Bill Anderson and Fred Dugan, experienced split ends, and spare flanker Frank Budd, the "world's fastest human" as a collegian.

Dangerous as he is, Snead would be even more effective if the Redskins had a stronger running attack. But injuries have kept Bill Barnes and Don Bosseler, Washington's chief runners, hobbled for much of the season, pushing the chief burden on to Dick James, a brilliant all-around performer but light, at 182 pounds, for such a heavy duty assignment. The recent acquisition of Tom Tracy from the Steelers has improved the situation, however.

A developing offensive line presents Fran O'Brien and Riley Mattson at the tackles; John Nisby and Vince Promuto at the guards and towering Fred Hageman at center.

On defense, Washington has Mean John Paluck and Andy Stynchula, persistent passer-persecutors, up front along with young Joe Rutgens and veteran Bob Toneff. The rookie Ron Snidow is being broken in as a reserve. Gordon Kelley, Bob Pellegrini and Rod Breedlove handle the line-backing, with help from Carl Kammerer and Allen Miller.

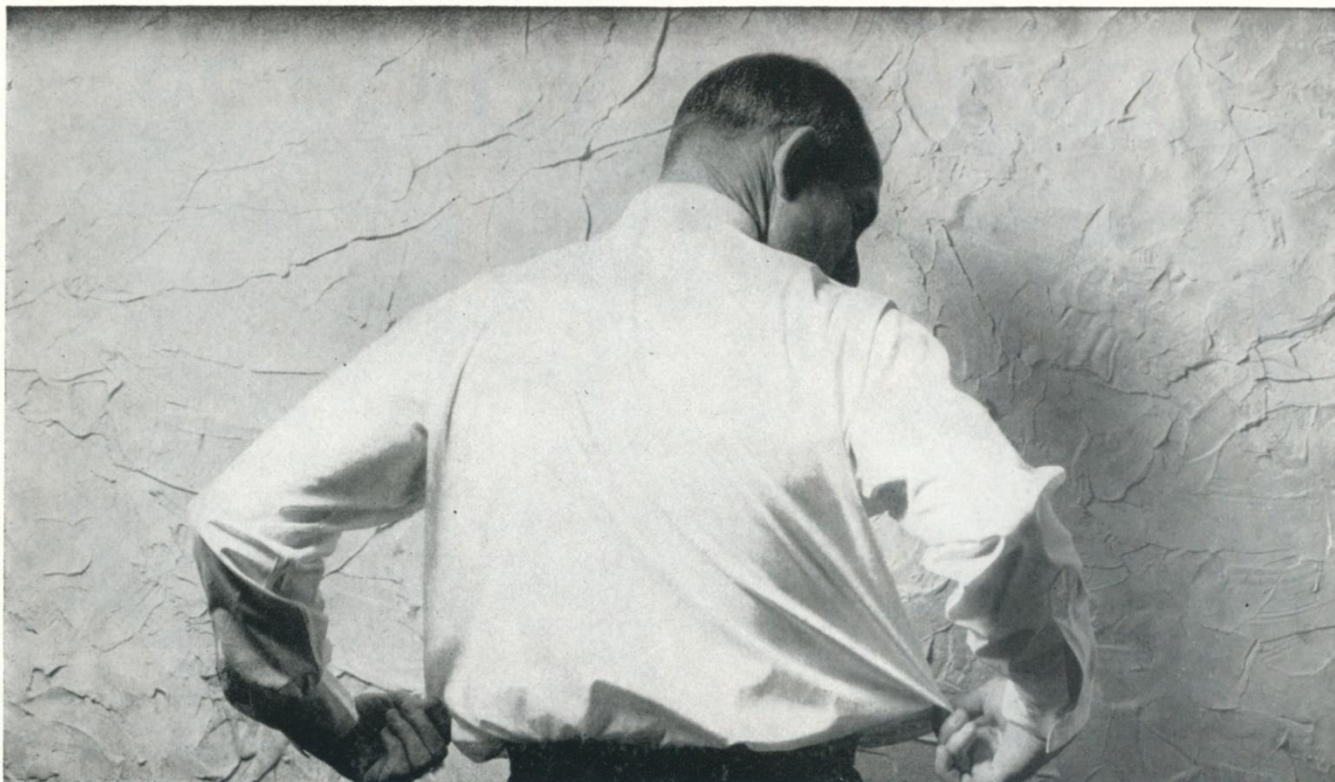

A tautened deep secondary deploys with Lonnie Sanders, a rookie, and Claude Crabb, a sophomore pro, at the corners and two seasoned performers, Jim Steffen and Dale Hackbart, at safety. James, a defensive regular in the past, and Dugan are also available if the need is dire.

The Redskins get long-range punting from Richter and better-than-average place-kicking from Ed Khayat.

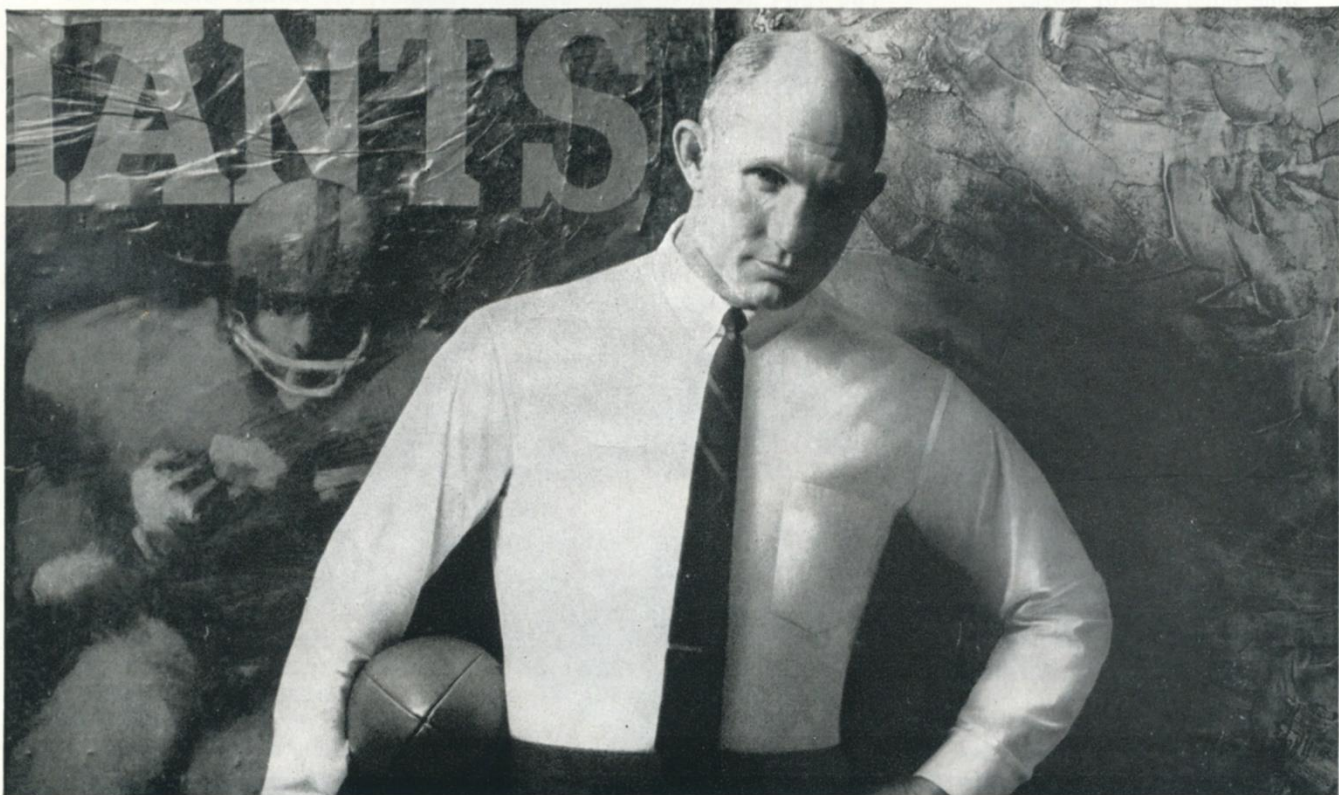

All in all, this young Washington team must be regarded with respect. It certainly has moved out of the doormat class.

Sizing Up Today's N.F.L. Games

The following NFL release points up the issues at stake, the potential high spots and other interesting facets of today's NFL games.

WASHINGTON AT NEW YORK

Giants return home for remainder of Eastern race. After Redskins, Pittsburgh at NY on season's final Sunday . . . Washington has now gone through 11 games with Giants without winning but gave New York good scare at D. C. Stadium first Sunday in October . . . Giants jumped out to 17-0 lead, but Skins struck back for two TDs in second period . . . It wasn't until the final quarter that the Giants pulled away to win 24-14 . . . Giants, like Cleveland, the other Eastern first place team, cannot afford to lose. Both Cleveland and St. Louis are strong threats.

CLEVELAND AT DETROIT

Lions have already put crimp in Packers' title drive by playing 13-13 tie with Green Bay on Thanksgiving . . . Now comes chance for Lions to do it to first place Browns . . . And the Lion's final chance at stirring up trouble comes next week when they close season at Chicago . . . The Lions hold a longtime hex over Cleveland . . . In nine regular and post-season meetings, the Browns have won only once, 56-10, in the 1954 championship game . . . The most recent Detroit win was 17-16 in Playoff Bowl after '60 season. . . . Cleveland whipped St. Louis 24-10 last Sunday, and is pushing hard for first conference championship since 1957 . . . Browns finish up at Washington . . . Their Jimmy Brown continues to be devastating. He raised his own NFL season rushing record to 1677 yards last Sunday and also leads the league in scoring, with 90 points on 15 Tds.

PHILADELPHIA AT ST. LOUIS

Cardinals, now tied for third in East with Pittsburgh, must win last two games and hope other three contenders lose at least once each . . . Rematch of thriller played second Sunday of season in Philadelphia and won by Cardinals 28-24 as runner Joe Childress turned in probably the finest game of career by rushing 136 yards in 29 attempts to set up three touchdown passes by Charley Johnson . . . Game was also featured by Tim Brown's 100-yard kickoff return for the Eagles . . . After this one, the Cards finish up at home with Dallas . . . Philadelphia battling to get out of last in East . . . Eagles played second tie of season, 20-20, last week with Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH AT DALLAS

Steelers are first team in league to play 3 ties since Brooklyn in 1938 . . . Pittsburgh cannot be in conference playoffs, but can win outright if Cleveland loses one more and Steelers win both . . . Pittsburgh slammed back from 21-6 deficit at Forbes Field in October to defeat Cowboys 27-21. . . . Steeler QB Ed Brown threw four TD passes that day, three to Buddy Dial and an 85-yarder to Red Mack, but it was a defensive play — a pass interception by rookie Jim Bradshaw — that stopped the Cowboys in the end. They were on the Steeler 17 with two minutes to play . . . Dallas held NY to very close 34-27 win last week.

SAN FRANCISCO AT CHICAGO

When the Bears arrived at Kezar Stadium back on Oct. 20, they had won five straight without defeat, and the host 49ers had lost five straight without victory . . . But when the day was over it was San Francisco 20, Chicago 14 . . . The win was the first at home for the new quarterback, Lamar McHan, and the new coach, Jack Christiansen . . . Since then the 49ers have won only one more game, and an SF victory now would again stun the experts . . . But the fact remains the 49ers are the only team to beat Chicago this season. The Bears' position in their bid for their first conference championship since 1956 is simply this: If they win their final two games the title is Chicago's, but a loss could mean another title for Green Bay. The 49ers' strength when they defeated the Bears was rushing. SF banged out 192 yards rushing against the tough Chicago line . . . If 1963 follows the pattern of the last four seasons, the Bears will win. Teams have split since 1959.

MINNESOTA AT BALTIMORE

Three weeks ago these same teams played one of most thrilling games of year with Colts finally prevailing 37-24 at Minnesota . . . Baltimore took a 16-0 first-quarter lead, Vikings roared into lead 20-16, lead changed hands two more times with Colts scoring last two TDs. Winning play was a 13-yard pass, Johnny Unitas to Jimmy Orr, with only five seconds remaining . . . Colts beat Washington 36-20 last week and inter-conference now stands East—6, West—5 and one tie . . . Vikings held Western leading Bears to 17-17 tie last Sunday.

Note—Green Bay played at Los Angeles yesterday.

1963 Draft All-America

OUT of some idle doodling a few years back, we've developed the annual habit of compiling what we consider the most authentic All-America team of all. It consists of the collegians picked highest at their positions in the NFL draft.

There is this to be said for the Draft All-America. The pros make their choices without regard to team ranking, geography and other such scratch-your-back considerations that motivate conventional All-America selectors. They just want the best football players, and their judgment, based on direct observation and intensive cross-checking with reliable sources, certainly commands respect.

In fairness, though, it should be noted that illustrious names do get passed over for various practical reasons. For instance, many spotlighted 1963 players, like Baylor's Don Trull, to name just one, have been selected in previous drafts as "future" choices.

Giant Draft Choices

1. Joe Don Looney, Oklahoma hb.
2. Steve Thurlow, Stanford hb.
3. Traded. 4. Matt Snell, Ohio State fb.
5. Tony DiMidio, West Chester t.
6. Henry Schittle, Wichita b.
7. Roger Anderson, Virginia Union t.
8. Gary Wood, Cornell b.
9. George Bitsko, Dayton lb.
10. James Moran, Idaho t.
11. Glen Conoren, Oklahoma t.
12. Jim McNaughton, Utah State e.
13. John Deibert, Penn State t.
14. Bill Harris, Colorado b.
15. Charles Hinton, Mississippi g.
16. Wayne Lembright, Toledo t.
17. Dave Humenik, Notre Dame t.
18. Jim Garrett, Grambling, hb.
19. Frank Kinnard, Mississippi hb.
20. Tony Gibbons, John Carroll t.

More detailed information to come.

Navy's Roger Staubach, eligible in this draft, faces a four-year service commitment on graduation a year from June. And other top drawer players have commitments to clubs in other leagues, or have declared themselves not interested in playing pro football.

Pro personnel directors take these factors into consideration. They also check carefully into such items as physical condition, character, attitude, family and service status. They want players who not only can but also most likely will make the grade in football's toughest league.

So here it is, the 1963 Draft All-America, with the order of selection parenthesized after each player's name:

FIRST TEAM

ENDS: Dave Parks, Texas Tech (1), Hal Bedsole, U.S.C. (19). TACKLES: Scott Appleton, Texas (4), Carl Eller, Minnesota (6). GUARDS: Bob Brown, Nebraska (2), Joe O'Donnell, Michigan (40). CENTER: Jon Morris, Holy Cross (27). QUARTERBACK: Pete Beathard, U.S.C. THE '63 SEASON'S TWO BIG WINNERS!

ALLIE SHERMAN'S BOOK OF FOOTBALL

The "Coach-of-the-Year" has written the book-of-the-year for everyone who wants to follow the game with an insider's knowledge of philosophy and techniques. Coach Sherman analyzes every offensive and defensive position; evaluates the various formations used in the pro game; and outlines his favorite running and passing attacks, giving the theory and timing of each play. This is the expert's guide for every high school and college player—and must reading for anyone who follows the Giants. With over 100 diagrams and photographs; edited by J. F. Dreyspool. $3.95

PRO FOOTBALL: The History of the Game and the Great Players

Robert Smith takes the pro game from its brawling, no-helmet beginnings right up to its present lightning perfection. He relives the big games of the past 60 years, including the unforgettable Giants-Colts playoff of 1958. And he follows the careers of the all-time greats—players like Thorpe, Grange, Baugh, Graham, and Hornung and coaches like Halas, Brown, and Lombardi. This is PRO FOOTBALL—as it was and as it is today, by a top sports writer who makes the telling nearly as exciting as the game itself. With 24 pages of photographs, $4.50.

THE way defense is played today in pro football, linebacker is a key position. Certainly, a wider range of responsibilities falls on the linebacker than any other defensive man. He must have the size and power to smash through on "red dog" assignments, the strength and determination to stand up under massive head-on assaults and the speed and range to cover pass-receivers in the flat zones. The Giants are fortunate in having men who possess these qualifications. Their close-support trio is composed of Jerry Hillebrand, Sam Huff and Tom Scott, reading from left to right as they line up on the field. The 240-pound Hillebrand, the No. 1 draft choice of 1962 who spent last season on the taxi squad, cracked the line-up just recently, and has been sensational. Huff, 230, is an eight-year pro who has won all-league rating several times. Scott, a topnotch end in the days of the five-man rushline, was acquired from the Eagles in a 1959 trade. In the bullpen is Bill Winter, a 1962-63 regular until an injury forced him to sit down. And, if further help is needed, handyman Mickey Walker pitches in.

Play it sure, make it 7

You know a drink will taste right when it's made with 7 Crown, the whiskey that's so good all by itself. Tall drink or short, plain drink or fancy, 7 Crown makes it smooth and memorable as nothing else can. No wonder 7 Crown has so many more fans than any other whiskey ever had.

more taste through the filter

It's the rich-flavor leaf that does it! L&M has more rich-flavor leaf than even some unfiltered cigarettes. And L&M's filter is the modern filter—all white—inside and outside—so only pure white touches your lips.

L&M's the filter cigarette for people who really like to smoke.
