NFL ILLUSTRATED

ABOUT THE COVER

■ In an effort to create a legitimate all-time selection, the Pro Football Hall of Fame was called upon to compile a list of the NFL's greatest players by positions. The choice of positions was based upon the arrangement of a modern pro team. Given the all-decade teams, the choice was made by the Hall of Fame selectors, sixteen distinguished journalists in the NFL cities who spend part of each year pondering the merits of all the NFL greats, past and present.

These are the men who have been chosen as pro football's best. They have brought to the game skill and strength, courage and perseverance, pride and devotion. They have stirred us to excitement, admiration, respect and affection. These are the enduring pros, the tradition makers upon whom the game was built.

The All Pros

STEELERS HOPE TO GET UNTRACKED AGAINST "Last-Minute" WINNING GIANTS

Can Pittsburgh's defense hold the erratic New Yorkers?

■ Coming into town at the bottom of the Century Division is not as bad a fate as it sounds for new head coach Chuck Noll's Pittsburgh Steelers. For it's early in the season yet and they stand only one game behind the three leaders—Cleveland, St. Louis and the Giants.

Actually the season started well for Pittsburgh, as Noll's debut brought a hard-fought 16-13 win over Detroit. But the Steeler defense broke down against Philadelphia as the Eagles ran up a 41-27 win. And last week it was St. Louis who came away with a 27-14 victory. In the Philadelphia game, quarterback Dick Shiner hit on 16 of 34 passes for 275 yards, and with Dick Hoak and Earl Gros running well, it looked like their offense would get untracked. But against St. Louis, Shiner suffered a broken left hand and will be out indefinitely. Pressed into action was back-up quarterback Kent Nix, who had not played previously. Nix responded with 17 completions in 35 attempts for 219 yards, and will probably be starting this afternoon.

The Steelers' strength is in their receiving, with last season's second-best NFL pass grabber, Roy Jefferson, now on top of the league with 20 completions for 285 yards and three touchdowns. At 6-2, 190 pounds, Jefferson is only 25 years old and promises to be a true superstar. At tight end is big John Hilton, a 6-5, 222-pounder who can catch the ball in any kind of traffic. Other top receivers are J. R. Wilburn, out this week with an injury, and Marshall Cropper, who replaced Wilburn last week and came up with five receptions for 76 yards.

So far Noll has had few kicking worries, with Bobby Walden averaging 43.1 yards-per-punt and veteran placekicker Gene Mingo hitting on five-of-seven field goal attempts. And running back kickoffs will be rookie Bob Campbell, a 6-0, 190-pounder from Penn State who now stands fifth in the league, averaging 28.5 yards-per-return.

Steelers Hope

The real question mark today is, will the Steelers defense—which has given up 68 points in its last two games—be able to contain the Fran Tarkenton-led Giant offense. Joe Greene, the Steelers' top draft choice this season, is fast developing into the all-star defensive tackle he was touted to be. At 6-4, 270, he poses a problem for the right side of the Giant offensive line. Joining him at left end is six-year veteran Lloyd Voss, also formidable at 6-4, 256. Veterans Chuck Hinton and Ben McGee hold down the left side and Andy Russell and Jerry Hillebrand are experienced linebackers. With the emergence of Giant rookie Don Herrmann as an outstanding receiver, Homer Jones should now even be tougher to cover for the Steeler defensive backs, and you can bet that Tarkenton will be filling the air with footballs today. Joe Morrison will be ready for duty as a receiver, riding on the heels of his game-winning catch over Chicago last week. And there's Freeman White, who had a 23-yard TD grab against the Bears. As for the Giants' running game, there is the ubiquitous Morison, who picked up 49 yards last week; Ernie Koy, Tucker Frederickson and John Fuqua. And of course Tarkenton-the-runner, who can cover ground when necessary. For a rundown on New York's developing defensive unit, see page 23. It looks like the Giants are getting to be known around the league as a scrambling, last-minute, come-from-behind team, with both of their wins so far this season coming on TD passes in the final 59 seconds of the game. Well, just so long as they win, New York fans and players will take them any way they can. And that includes today's game, you can be sure. ■

3 PETE GOGOLAK, K. Signed as free agent in '66 and led team in scoring with 77 points. After Army stint in '67, he again led scorers with 78 last year. This included 36 PATs without a miss. Pete and his family escaped Hungary during the 1956 uprising. He introduced soccer style kicking to US football while at Cornell, setting many Ivy League records.
Cornell 6-1 190 28

21 BRUCE MAHER, DB. A mainstay of the Detroit Lions' tough defense for eight years, Bruce came to the Giants in a trade prior to 1968. Named by his teammates the Most Valuable Lion in 1965, he is noted for his rugged play despite his relatively small size. Bruce's career record shows 17 interceptions returned for 324 yards.
Detroit 5-11 185 31

10 FRAN TARKENTON, QB. Obtained in a 1967 trade with Minnesota, Fran has proven to be one of pro football's most exciting performers. Known primarily as a scrambler, he has rushed for 2500 yards and 20 TDs in eight NFL seasons. But his outstanding passing totals—1410 completions for 20,222 yards and 163 TDs—also rank him 4th in NFL history.
Georgia 6-0 190 29

23 ERNIE KOY, RB. The Giants' No. 11 draft pick in 1965, Ernie came into his own in 1967, when he ran 146 times for 704 yards and caught 32 passes. He followed this up with an excellent performance in the Pro Bowl game. Last year he again averaged over four yards per carry, picking up 394 yards on 89 carries for 4.4 and three TDs.
Texas 6-3 230 27

16 MILT PLUM, QB. No. 2 draft pick of Cleveland in 1957, Milt won back-to-back NFL passing titles in 1960-61. He was traded to Detroit in '62 and had his best day as a pro in 1964, completing 16 of 24 for 347 yards and three TDs. Traded to the Rams last season, he provided experienced back-up for quarterback Roman Gabriel.
Penn State 6-2 205 34

24 TUCKER FREDERICKSON, RB. No. 1 draft choice of the Giants—and the first player selected in the NFL draft for 1965, Tucker enjoyed a sensational rookie season, gaining 659 yards. But knee injuries followed by operations benched him the next two seasons. Last year, almost fully recovered, he returned to form gaining 486 yards and catching 10 passes.
Auburn 6-2 220 26

20 SCOTT EATON, DB. Signed as a No. 8 draft choice for 1967, Scott was better known as a basketball star at Oregon State, having played but one season of football. He had an exceptional pre-season performance, breaking into the starting defensive backfield. Big and strong, he's been there ever since and rival coaches agree he's a top young find.
Oregon State 6-3 200 23

28 BOBBY DUHON, RB. The Giants' second draft pick last season, Bobby had a banner year. After a brief trial at defensive back, he was moved to running back. He responded by rushing for 362 yards and a 3.6 average, catching 37 passes for 373 yards, scoring four TDs, and returning punts and kickoffs as well for 1005 yards total offense.
Tulane 6-0 195 23

giants

29 JOHN FUQUA, RB. The Giants' No. 11 draft pick for 1969, John has been a pleasant surprise to New York coaches. Small at only 5-11, he runs with great determination and power, and he has been time at 4.6 in the 40-yard dash. Possessed of very good lateral movement at top speed and a fine change of pace, he also has a great second effort.

Morgan State 5-11 200 22

45 HOMER JONES, E. The finest deep receiver in pro football, Homer has led the NFL in average yards per catch in each of the past four seasons, last year with a 23.5 mark. Cut by Houston of the AFL in 1963, Homer had been the Giants' 20th draft pick, so they gave him a tryout. Knee surgery slowed him during his first two seasons, but the rest is history.

Texas Southern 6-2 215 28

40 JOE MORRISON, FL. One of the most versatile players in the history of the NFL, Joe was the No. 3 draft pick of the Giants' in 1959. In the ensuing ten years he has played no less than six different positions for New York, amassing a total of 5655 yards. Last season, he caught 37 passes for 425 yards and six TDs, including one 68-yarder.

Cincinnati 6-1 212 32

53 GREG LARSON, C. The dean of Giant offensive linemen, Greg was a No. 6 draft pick for New York in 1961. A serious knee injury almost ended his career in 1964, but dogged determination helped Greg return to play. In 1966 he won the New York Touchdown Club's "Comeback Award." Greg has played in the Rose Bowl, College All-Star and Pro Bowl games.

Minnesota 6-3 250 30

41 WILLIE WILLIAMS, DB. A No. 8 draft choice for 1965, Willie spent that season as a utility defensive back with the Giants and as a kickoff and punt return man. He was with the Oakland Raiders in 1966, then returned to New York half-way through 1967. He has been a starter ever since, last year leading the NFL in interceptions with ten, returned for 103 yds.

Grambling 6-1 190 26

55 RALPH HECK, LB. Ralph was the No. 11 draft pick of the Philadelphia Eagles for 1963 and played there for three seasons before being claimed by Atlanta in the 1966 expansion draft. He came to New York prior to this season for a future draft choice. Ralph was a two-year regular at outside linebacker for the Falcons, but can also play in the middle.

Colorado 6-1 230 28

43 CARL LOCKHART, DB. An original member of Em-len's Gremlins, Spider was the Giants' No. 13 draft pick for 1965. It has to be one of the best selections ever made by New York. Spider won a regular job as a rookie and has been a mainstay in the defensive back-field ever since. Last season he had eight interceptions, two for TDs and one a 72-yarder.

N. Texas State 6-2 175 26

56 TOMMY CRUTCHER, LB. The No. 3 draft choice of the Green Bay Packers in 1964, Tommy Joe was obtained by the Giants in a trade prior to last season. Despite a slow-healing groin injury, he performed consistently at the left linebacker spot all year. This season he has been moved to the right side and, with the injury healed, should do well.

TCU 6-3 230 27

giants

61 CHARLIE HARPER, G. The Giants' No. 6 draft choice for 1966, Charlie is a versatile lineman who has played regularly at guard and tackle. He was a standout defensive player in college, but his quickness and blocking ability make him more suited to the offensive line in pro ball. Charlie is considered the best golfer on the Giants.

Oklahoma State 6-0 250 25

69 WILLIE YOUNG, T. Originally signed as a free agent in 1966, Willie started as a guard, moved to defensive tackle and finally ended at offensive tackle. Not a colorful or spectacular player, he is a hard worker who can always be counted upon for a steady, consistent performance, the kind of player the coaches and opponents respect.

Grambling 6-0 265 26

63 DOUG VAN HORN, G. The No. 4 draft choice of the Detroit Lions for 1966, Doug reported late the following year because of Army duty and was released. The Giants picked him up as a free agent and he spent the year on the taxi squad with the Westchester Bulls. Last season he was promoted to the parent club and saw action at guard late in the campaign.

Ohio State 6-2 245 26

71 BOB LURTSEMA, DT. Bob was signed as a free agent by Baltimore in 1966 and spent that season on the Colts' taxi squad. He came to the Giants just prior to the 1967 season and won a starting berth almost immediately. In the ensuing two years, he has continued to improve and now is considered New York's outstanding pass rusher.

Western Michigan 6-6 250 27

65 PETE CASE, G. Obtained from the Philadelphia Eagles in a 1965 pre-season trade, Pete now ranks as one of the premier guards in the NFL. He was the Eagles' No. 2 draft choice in 1962 and became a regular in '64. Not a spectacular performer, Pete has never made all pro, but most league coaches agree that he's one of the best.

Georgia 6-3 245 28

72 FRANK PARKER, DT. An outstanding player at Oklahoma State, Frank was a member of the 1962 College All-Star squad. Originally drafted by the Browns on the fifth round, he played five strong years with Cleveland before being traded to Pittsburgh in '67. He came to the Giants just before this season and moved right into a starting spot.

Oklahoma State 6-4 255 29

66 HENRY DAVIS, LB. One of the surprises of the '68 season was Henry's outstanding play. Only drafted on the 11th round, he had been an offensive guard and defensive end in college, but the Giants moved him to the middle linebacker spot. He responded with great performances all year, like the Dallas game when he had 12 unassisted tackles.

Grambling 6-3 235 25

78 STEVE WRIGHT, T. One of the best trades the Giants have made in recent years brought Steve (and Tom Crutcher) from Green Bay in 1968. Wright, the Packers' No. 5 pick in 1965, moved right into a starting tackle position with New York and did well until a groin injury sidelined him late in the season. He is a particularly good pass-blocker.

Alabama 6-6 250 27

79 BRUCE ANDERSON, DE. The No. 6 draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams for 1966, Bruce came to the Giants prior to the '67 season and when the year was over, he was playing regularly at right defensive end. He's been starting ever since, but this season he has been moved to the left side. Big and agile, Bruce is particularly strong on the pass rush.
Willamette 6-4 250 25

81 FREEMAN WHITE, TE. An All-America pass catcher in college, Freeman was moved to the defensive backfield by the Giants after being drafted ninth in 1966. This year he returns to his specialty as a receiver at the tight end spot. Freeman's size and speed make him particularly tough to bring down, and he is also a fine blocker.
Nebraska 6-5 225 25

82 MCKINLEY BOSTON, LB. A 15th round draft pick last year, McKinley was originally an offensive guard, but was shifted to defensive end because of his quickness and aggressiveness. He performed well as a rookie, mainly as an understudy to Jim Katcavage, and was a key man on the special teams, recovering three fumbles, all of which resulted in TDs.
Minnesota 6-2 245 23

85 DON HERRMANN, FL. One of the surprise rookies of the Giants' training camp, Don was only the No. 15 draft choice for this season. He had a phenomenal career as an All-NAIA performer at Waynesburg (Pa.), with records like most passes caught in one game (18) and most TD passes in a game (7). Not big for a flanker, Don has good hands and moves.
Waynesburg State 6-2 195 22

88 AARON THOMAS, E. The No. 4 draft pick of San Francisco in 1961, Aaron came to New York in a trade the following year. Possessed of good size and speed, he has played both flanker and tight end. He hit a personal high in 1967 with 51 receptions for 877 yards and nine TDs. Last season he caught 29 for 449 yards and four TDs.
Oregon State 6-3 215 31

89 FRED DRYER, DE. The top draft choice of New York for this season, Fred was unanimously rated by pro scouts as first-round draft material after starring at San Diego State. An excellent pass rusher, he has 4.8 speed in the 40-yard dash and was one of the defensive stars of this year's College All-Star game. The Giants expect big things of him.
San Diego State 6-6 240 23

THE FINAL WORD

■ In addition to the 22 players on the playing field, all NFL games require six officials for every game. The REFEREE is positioned behind the team on offense and is responsible for overall control of the game. The UMPIRE is positioned opposite to the referee, behind the defensive team. The HEAD LINESMAN and LINE JUDGE are positioned on opposite sides of the field sharing joint responsibility for scrimmage line infractions. The head linesman supervises the chain crew and the line judge is the official timer for the game. The FIELD JUDGE and BACK JUDGE cover the game from a deep position on the defensive side of the field.

The officials for today's game are listed on pages 32-33. The complete NFL officials roster follows:

REFEREES

Tom Bell, No. 7, University of Kentucky, partner, law firm, Lexington, Kentucky, 8th year as NFL official.

Harry Brubaker, No. 23, Loyola of Los Angeles, teacher, coach-athletic director, Los Angeles Board of Education, Hermosa Beach, California, 20th year in NFL.

Pat Haggerty, No. 40, Colorado State College, teacher and coach, Denver, Colorado, 5th year in NFL.

George Rennix, No. 52, Minnesota, owner, insurance agency, Northbrook, Illinois, 14th year in NFL.

Norm Schachter, No. 56, Alfred University, high school principal, Los Angeles, 16th year in NFL.

Fred Swearingen, No. 21, Ohio University, president, sporting goods company, Athens, Ohio, 10th year in NFL.

Jim Tunney, No. 32, Occidental College, secondary school principal, Los Angeles City Schools, South Pasadena, California, 10th year in NFL.

Bernie Uiman, No. 6, University of Maryland, sales representative, sporting goods company, Baltimore, Maryland, 7th year in NFL.

UMPIRES

Barry Brown, No. 22, San Jose State, director of athletics, Los Angeles Board of Education, Buena Park, California, 4th year in NFL.

Joe Connell, No. 57, University of Pittsburgh, district sales manager, steel company, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, 18th year in NFL.

Pat Harder, No. 36, University of Wisconsin, sales manager for packaging firm, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, former NFL player, 4th year as official.

Ralph Morcroft, No. 15, Ohio State, owner car wash business, Hollywood, Florida, 9th year in NFL.

Joe Muha, No. 43, Virginia Military Institute, associate college professor, lives in San Gabriel, California, former NFL player, 14th year as official.

Lou Palazzi, No. 51, Penn State University, landscape architect, Dunmore, Pennsylvania, lives in Scranton, former NFL player, 18th year in NFL.

Tony Sacco, No. 18, St. Ambrose College, vice president, chemical engineering firm, Chicago, Illinois, lives in Oak Park, Ill., 12th year in NFL.

Frank Sinkovitz, No. 20, Duke University, restaurant owner, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, former NFL player, 12th year as official.

Bill Swanson, No. 38, Lake Forest, regional sales manager, industrial building materials manufacturing company, Chicago, Ill., 5th year in NFL.

DEFENSE IS THE KEY

Rookie Fred Dryer (89) and 25-year-old Bob Lurtsema symbolize the potential of the youthful Giant defensive line.

The Giants are building their hopes on these young play-wreckers

By DON WILLIAMS, Newhouse Papers

■ "Hold that line!" "Three downs and out!"

Inspirational defensive cries? "Hog-wash!" says Jim Trimble. "To me, it's 'Get that ball!'"

Anyone who thinks "defense" on defense shouldn't be playing defense, claims the Giants' defensive line coach. "To me, it's not a matter of 'holding that line;' it's a matter of 'getting that football'—by stealing it, punching it, tackling it."

The word "defense," he says, has a "very poor connotation. There is nothing that can turn a game around faster than the 'defense.' Force a fumble, steal a pass. That's what gives you momentum."

And that is what the Giants are asking of Trimble, switched from the offensive line, and Norb Hecker, ex-Green Bay assistant and Atlanta head man: Work with Emlen Tunnell and his defensive backs and establish some defensive momentum.

And they have done it with an almost total new look up front. Of the seven line and linebacking positions, six changes have taken place since last year. The linebacking corps has been completely reshuffled . . . Tommy Crutcher moving from strong to weak side, Henry Davis from the middle to the strong side, newcomer Ralph Heck taking over the middle.

"If you're starting from scratch," says Hecker, "it would probably take at least two years to build a defensive line." In '59, when Vince Lombardi, starting out in Green Bay, hired him to take over the defense, Hecker faced a similar situation. "We kept only Dave Hanner and traded for people like Willie Davis, Henry Jordan and Bill Quinlan."

The next year Green Bay won a championship . . . and the next . . . and the next. "We're making progress here, too," says Hecker. "Dryer is now learning to react, learning to utilize his speed and quickness. He knows he isn't big enough to overpower anyone."

He is also learning to communicate. "In the Minnesota game," recalls Lurtsema, "on three different occasions Fred took the inside, I went outside—and knocked each other off. And we both had our man beaten."

The solution? "Knowing in advance when he would take the inside," says Lurtsema. "As a rule, an end won't go inside more than four or five times a game."

"Dryer," says Trimble, "has great outside speed. So has Anderson. But they are not strong in the accepted sense of the word. They have to capitalize on their quickness." Parker, at 6-4, 255, is quite the opposite. But he personifies what the Giants have been looking for at defensive tackle: experience and great physical strength.

"Until he had to come out of the Detroit game with a pulled muscle," says Trimble, "he had been the catalyst" . . . as Lurtsema can attest. It was the double-teaming of Parker which helped open the way for Lurtsema to play so well against Minnesota that he wound up with a game ball.

"This was a big break coming to the Giants," beams Parker. "I guess we can all thank Joe Greene for it." Greene, Pittsburgh's No. 1 draft pick, pushed Parker out of a starting job with the Steelers. "I knew they weren't going to pay him what they were and sit him on the bench," says Parker, "and I would have been mighty unhappy playing behind him." The way Parker sees it, he's still got a few years left and he didn't want to spend them watching Joe Greene become all-pro.

And the way Hecker sees it, a great deal of credit is owed Heck for the job he's doing calling defensive (sorry about that, Mr. Trimble) signals. "We don't have four big studs up front who can dominate a game the way, say, Minnesota can," says Hecker. "What we've got to try to do is stay one step ahead of the quarterback—try to outguess him. And Ralph is doing a great job. He knows defenses. He knows how to Moving experienced Ralph Heck (shown running back an interception above) into the crucial middle linebacker spot has helped bolster both line play and pass coverage.

In the final analysis, it is in the heart of the pit where teamwork between defenders must occur. At right, Bob Lurtsema (71) pulls down Minnesota's Dave Osborn, while Bruce Anderson (79) and linebacker Henry Davis (66) help out.

Hecker, who had Heck at Atlanta, calls him "a leader . . . a real take-charge guy." "That's what 'defense' is all about," says Trimble, ". . . muscle and morale. If the line gives you muscle, there's a sense of well-being all around. You get that 'we-can-do-anything' attitude."

It's even more fun for a coach. "There's no inhibitions on defense," says Trimble. "It's more free-wheeling. A chance to hit people. It rubs off."

Trimble knows whereof he speaks. In 1950, Bo McMillan brought him to Philadelphia to coach the offensive line. In his spare time, he also ran the defense. "Those," he says, "were the days of three-men coaching staffs."

Gone forever? Sure. Just like the Giants' defensive problems. They hope. ■

not big for a defensive lineman, this rock-tough tackle played 14 great years

Hall of Fame profile

WHEN Ernie Stautner retired in 1964 after 14 hard-fought campaigns with the Pittsburgh Steelers, almost every observer agreed it would be just a matter of time—the minimum five-year waiting period, to be exact—before this hell-for-leather ex-Marine would be inducted into the Football Hall of Fame.

No prediction was ever more accurate! For this year, the first time Ernie was eligible, he became a member.

Ernie, who played in the Pro Bowl nine times, had the unusual distinction for a defensive tackle of winding up not once, but twice, in the National Football League record book. His three career safeties tie him for an all-time high and his 21 opponents' fumbles recovered place him third on that list.

Yet Ernie's true worth on a football field could never be measured in lines in a record manual, for statistics can't measure such assets as competitive nature, team spirit, grim determination and the will to win.

At 235 pounds, Stautner was smaller than most defensive linemen of the 1950s and, today, they wouldn't even consider him for a "Front Four" post. But with excellent mobility and burning desire, this native Bavarian who was a great college star at Boston College, excelled in the game of giants for 14 years. That's far longer than most pro gridders manage to just "hang on."

Ernie, now a defensive coach with the Dallas Cowboys, was uniquely honored when the Steelers retired his No. 70 jersey. The Steelers ordinarily don't do such things, but then, too, they ordinarily don't—nor does any club—have someone around for so long the likes of Ernie Stautner! ■

■ Why do they do it? Why do men play professional football?

It is a brutal game. It is combat, stern and awful. Those who give themselves to the game leave a little of their bodies on the field. It is mock warfare, with crazyquilt scars and deep welts the ribbons of valor.

It is complex, sophisticated; yet grandly primal. The strategies are intricate, but the blood is still red.

Yet the men who participate are more than just mercenaries. Not even today's salaries, good though they are, could alone compensate for the sacrifice, the sweat, the blood, the pain. The men who play the game are athletes, their bodies bigger and more skillful than most. Yet they are men, members of a community, sons, husbands, fathers and quite mortal.

Most are college graduates, and many could have made their mark in a number of professions, as many will when their bodies and minds are no longer up to the terrible demands of the hundred yard war.

So, why do they do it? Why do these men play the game? For they are indeed men, and it is still a game. What is the magic, macabre or divine, that drives and lures them, that forces them to tears and explodes them into leaps of unabashed joy? What is it about this game that we call football?

They come from everywhere, these young men, to pit their skills, test their courage and earn their living. They come from the small towns and the city ghettos, the arid Southwest and the frigid North, the flat plains and the deep South. They come ready to fight, scratch and crawl to make the team; to play the game. But behind the apparent single-mindedness lie motivations as diverse as the men themselves.

What are the individual aspects of this attraction? The players themselves supply the answers.

First there is competition and pride:

"I love competition, honest competition, and in the NFL, it's very competitive." John Unitas, Quarterback, Baltimore Colts.

"I wanted to prove something to myself—that I could play with the best. It was personal pride." Dante Lavelli, End, Cleveland Browns, Retired.

"Professional football is a complicated, demanding and competitive profeSSION; and like other professions, achievement is determined by hard work. When I miss a workout, I feel I've given every defensive end I play against a day's jump on me. I feel I've cheated myself, my family and the team." Bob Brown, Tackle, Los Angeles Rams.

Why They Play The Game

"The beauty of the game of football is that often you are called upon to do something beyond your capabilities—and you do it." Dub Jones, End, Cleveland Browns, Retired.

Next, the players talk of that essential ingredient, the violence of aggressive contact.

"You've got to punish your opponent. You've got to make him think that to try you is a mistake." Willie Davis, Defensive End, Green Bay Packers.

"Contact is the most important part of football to me. If a man doesn't get hurt in the game, he hasn't been playing hard enough." Larry Wilson, Safety, St. Louis Cardinals.

"Anybody who says this game is beastly, brutal and nasty, he's right. You are out there to inflict punishment, not to take it. It's a great personal satisfaction when you get a good hit on someone." Wayne Walker, Linebacker, Detroit Lions.

The result of all that violence is inevitably pain.

"A man who is a professional has to play with a great deal of pain at one time or another." Jim Marshall, Defensive End, Minnesota Vikings.

In the pros, then, pain is a fact of life. They endure it with stoic pride. They expect this sacrifice of themselves—and of their teammates.

"A football player must learn to accept pain. It's a very competitive life and you are judged solely on performance. If a man doesn't have the discipline to endure pain and continue, something is lacking in his emotional makeup." Bernie Casey, Flanker, Los Angeles Rams, Retired.

But they perhaps are willing to suffer mainly because of their love for each other.

"You go with pain because you know you have a job to do. It's going to hurt you, but you know your playing will help the team, and you find yourself in there doing what you are supposed to do. As football players, we have something more important to us than our own selves." Carl Lockhart, Safety, New York Giants.

"I love the guys. The togetherness and closeness to me is the greatest thing in the world . . . you've all got to get in there as a team. And when you get it done, it's a great feeling. You know that you've all done it together." Wayne Walker, Linebacker, Detroit Lions.

In addition, the pro player lives with fear. The game itself is, in part, a fear experience.

"The running back always has a little fear in him. And that fear makes you run faster and try harder." Mel Farr, Halfback, Detroit Lions.

Interestingly, the chief fear of the players seemed to be a fear of incompetence, the dread of failure among proud men.

"The fear of football players is not the fear of pain, but the fear that an injury will keep them from doing their job." Andy Russell, Linebacker, Pittsburgh Steelers.

Dr. Paul Brand, Pathologist for the U.S. Public Health Service, believes that these realities of fear and pain are the key to much of the game's mystique. "There is a clear relationship between pain and personality and personal identification. Pain and pleasure are closely related in the human consciousness. The absence of either pain or pleasure is a kind of death. The peak sensations of pain and pleasure are right square in the middle of the substance of living. A person feels much more involved with himself and his fellows in these instances of fear and physical involvement."

Love, satisfaction, fear, challenge, pride. These are the things professional football players talk about when they are asked why they play the game. They are difficult emotions to articulate, as complex as man himself. Many, when directly confronted with "Why play pro football?" can only shake off the full implications of the question with the over simplified answer: "I like to hit." Yet in evading the question, the player lets the interviewer know there is much implied that is almost too personal to discuss casually.

It is all there, interwoven, each a part of the sum. And this sum for most players is an almost addicting satisfaction. Howard Mudd, guard, San Francisco 49ers, echoes this: "In this sport, the rewards are immediate, clear cut. The satisfaction total." ■

Unbeaten Los Angeles Seeks 4th Straight Victory Against San Francisco; Dallas Takes 3-0 Record to Atlanta; 4 Central Division Rivals Meet

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 12

Los Angeles (3-0) at San Francisco (0-2-1)

■ Rams take a two-game Coastal Division lead and a 20-16-2 series advantage against their California rival . . . Los Angeles QB Roman Gabriel and Jack Snow combines for 3 TDs (35, 24 and 74 yards) on latter's only three receptions for 133 yards in 36-17 victory over New Orleans . . . Gabriel hit 14 of 32 for 228 yards and 4 TDs (TE Bill Truax caught the 4th) . . . RB Les Josephson, apparently fully recovered from Achilles tendon surgery which voided last season, ran 14 times for 65 yards and took 3 passes for 24 . . . Bruce Gossett kicked 35 and 44-yard FGs . . . RS Eddie Meador's 41st lifetime interception (3rd among active players behind Dave Whitsell, 43, and Dick LeBeau, 42) was one of 3 by Rams; LB Doug Woodlief and CB Willie Daniel had the other . . . San Francisco's first victory eluded the 49ers in the final 26 seconds of a 17-17 tie with Washington . . . RB Doug Cunningham gained 71 yards on 15 carries; Ken Willard 58 on 17 . . . QB John Brodie was 18 of 29 for 149 yards, 1 TD . . . WR Gene Washington caught 3 for 45 . . . Rams needed Gossett's 20-yard FG in final 17 seconds to tie 49ers, 20-20, last year at Kezar Stadium . . . LA won pre-season game, 31-28 . . . Many parts of the nation will see this game as second part of CBS-TV doubleheader.

Dallas (3-0) at Atlanta (1-2)

The Cowboys and Rams are the only unbeaten teams in the NFL after three weeks of play . . . Dallas has defeated Atlanta in only two previous games . . . Cowboys unleashed strongest offense since opening game of 1968 in downing Philadelphia, 38-7 with 526 yards, 334 passing and 182 rushing . . . QB Craig Morton's 14 of 18 for 261 yards, 3 TDs and 0 interceptions lifted him to No. 1 among NFL passers (22 of 32, 383 yards, .688, 4 TDs, 0 interceptions, 11.97 average per attempt) . . . Roger Staubach added 60 yards, hitting 5 of 8, while RB Calvin Hill was 1-for-1 for 44 yards . . . Hill retained the rushing lead with 10 carries for 91 yards, 1 TD for a 3-game total of 51 for 299; he also caught 3 passes for 71 yards . . . WR Lance Rentzel's 6 catches netted 128 yards, 1 TD and he scored another by recovering a Hill fumble in the end zone . . . Dennis Homan grabbed 4 for 81 yards . . . Aaron Thomas, Giants' offensive end, uses Dep for Men

Aaron Thomas has his hair styled. Got a gripe?

Thomas could handle his opponents, but not his hair. So he did something about it—went to a hairstylist. And now look. Aaron's hair not only looks great, it's easier to care for, too. Much of the credit, of course, goes to the stylist and how he cut—or shaped—Aaron's hair. But the rest goes to Dep for Men, the products made for guys who want that styled look. Dep for Men Hairdress Styling Gel gives you the control you want. Leaves your hair looking thicker, healthier. And Dep for Men Hair Spray makes sure it'll stay that way. Still got a gripe? Well you should. Against guys with messy hair.

Craftsmanship lives in Benchmark. Measure your Bourbon against it.

The men who make this Bourbon still think you can do a better job if you care a lot for your craft.

So, they were happy with the name Benchmark. It means, "that which others are measured against".

They think their Bourbon lives up to its name. Taste it and see what you think.

No-deposit Non-return Bottles

You add to your enjoyment when you buy beer in glass bottles. No metallic tinge—just the pure flavor of the brew which your brewer put into it.

Beer in one-way, no deposit bottles costs no more than cans. More sanitary because bottles are sterilized before filling . . . and the cap protects the pouring lip from dust and germs.

GLASS helps health

Glass bottles and jars make life more pleasant, convenient and healthful for people all over the world. Glass bottles protect the purity of baby foods—protect and preserve the fresh-picked flavor of your favorite juices, fruits and vegetables. Glass itself is so pure it cannot change the flavor of the contents or alter the most delicate aroma. Glass bottles keep milk clean and pure. There's nothing in glass to change dairy-fresh flavor. Since glass is weather-proof, it always protects quality, consistency and flavor.

NEWS AND NOTES

■ TRADING DEADLINE for National Football League clubs is 4 P.M., New York time, on the day after all clubs have played their sixth league game . . . This year, that will be 4 P.M. Tuesday, October 28, because New York plays at Dallas on Monday night, October 27, in a CBS-TV national telecast . . . The NFL deadline is eight days later than the AFL's Monday, October 20, trading limit because the AFL schedule is one week ahead of the NFL's . . . A player may change teams after the deadline only by first being cleared on waivers by all other teams in his league . . . In previous years, the trading deadline was at midnight of the day of the fifth regular season game.

"A LOT OF PEOPLE GET MY SPEED MIXED UP WITH MY QUICKNESS," laughs Colt rookie Jim Duncan, whose 92-yard kickoff return for a touchdown 22 seconds before the half ended set up Baltimore's 21-14 victory over Atlanta. "I used to run the 60-yard dash at Maryland State but I never did much with the 100. That 92 yards seemed a long way." . . . Duncan's return, which boosted him into third place in kickoff returns with a 37.0 average for six attempts, tied the score at 14 and came on the kickoff following the touchdown that gave Atlanta a 14-7 lead.

PHILADELPHIA PLACE KICKER SAM BAKER is the second player in NFL history to surpass 900 points. His two field goals and eight extra points this season boosted his total to 912 points on two touchdowns, 165 field goals and 405 extra points. ■

Lips do a lot of nice things for Scott Willard's dad.

Ken Willard, San Francisco 49'ers, and son Scott.

Whether you play in the National Football League or in your own backyard, your lips need rough-weather protection. That's why the Willard boys use Chap Stick® lip balm. It's medicated to soothe and help heal rough, chapped lips. When used regularly, it prevents chapped lips from happening. No wonder it's in all the locker rooms of the NFL. And in many of the players' homes.

Do something nice for your lips. Use medicated 'Chap Stick'.

Early defensive heroics by Carl Lockhart got New York off to a good start. He blocked a Bear field goal attempt, then later (at left) recovered a fumble.

In the second and third quarters, Chicago defenders like Marty Amsler (81, below) began getting to Giant quarterback Fran Tarkenton. New York's offense faltered and suddenly they had an uphill struggle.

Eventual hero of the game was "old reliable" Joe Morrison (shown hurdling a tackler below), who caught two passes in the final drive, including the game-winning 26-yarder from Tarkenton.

GIANTS ACTION

GIANTS 28 BEARS 24

■ On October 6 in the Stadium, the Giants did it again, pulling out their second last-minute win of the season, beating Chicago, 28-24. Taking an early 14 point lead, the New Yorkers couldn't hold on and late in the fourth period, trailed 24-21. With only 2:38 to go in the game, quarterback Fran Tarkenton led a 72-yard march ending with a 26-yard TD-pass to Joe Morrison with 59-seconds to go for the victory. ■

The Virginia State College Marching 110 Trojans

■ Since 1948 the Virginia State College Band of Petersburg, Virginia, has been making an ever increasing contribution to the College and the state of Virginia. After three consecutive years of participation in the Annual Apple Blossom Festival representing a predominantly Negro state institution, it won first place in the college band division. It has been through numerous tours giving concerts in public schools and community centers from Florida to Massachusetts.

In 1960 the band was invited to present a nationally televised program before 65,000 New York Giant football fans in Yankee Stadium. This performance was so enthusiastically received as to earn four return engagements in six years. Following the initial television appearance in 1960 in New York, the demands for the services of the band financed by the host for national telecast at professional football games lead to three appearances three consecutive years for the Philadelphia Eagles, a performance for the Washington Redskins and a performance for the Baltimore Colts. This amounts to 15 nationally televised performances in major cities in 9 years.

The Montreal Beavers professional football organization extended the band a most unique invitation to perform in Montreal, Canada. This invitation was the first to any college band in America to perform at a professional football game in Montreal, Canada. The band accepted the invitation, and presented a half-time program on October 15, 1966 at Expo Stadium during the football game between the Montreal Beavers and the Ironmen from West Virginia.

The college band is symbolic of the kind of training American youth are getting in a college in Virginia and collegiate institutions in America. The activities of the band indicated above have been of an immeasurable educational value for our college students, especially since the membership of the band represents every area of concentration offered by the College at the undergraduate level.

The halftime performance of the Virginia State College Band at today's game marks the seventh appearance of the Marching "110" Trojans at Yankee Stadium since 1960.

The Director of the Band is Claiborne T. Richardson, Associate Professor of Music. Robert Thomas, Assistant Professor of Music, is Assistant Band Director and Arranger. Katherine Bennett, Associate Professor of Physical Education, is in charge of the majorettes.

Clad in blue and orange uniforms with white gloves and spats, the band performs fast cadence steps, formations and dance routines, using a formula of eight steps equal five yards and four bars of music.

The New York Giants are again proud to present for your halftime entertainment the Virginia State College Marching 110 Trojans. ■

Introducing Zenith

CHROMACOLOR

A revolutionary new color television system featuring a new patented color picture tube...that outcolors...outbrightens...outdetails...and outperforms...every giant-screen color TV before Chromacolor!

We would like to show you Chromacolor instead of the simulated TV picture at right. Because it is impossible to accurately reproduce the Chromacolor picture in a magazine, we invite you to visit a Zenith dealer and compare Chromacolor with any other color TV.

After years of pioneering research, Zenith introduces one of the biggest breakthroughs in color TV history: Chromacolor. A total system that brings you a color picture over 100% brighter, with truer colors, sharper detail and greater contrast than any giant-screen color TV before Chromacolor.

The heart of the system is the revolutionary new Chromacolor picture tube, incorporating Zenith's patented black-surround principle. Where previous giant-screen color pictures have been made up of thousands of tiny red, green, and blue dots on a gray background, Zenith found a way to reduce the dots in size, surround them with jet black, and for the first time, fully illuminate every dot.

You'll see the difference immediately—not only greater brilliance, but dramatically new contrast, new definition, and new sharpness of detail.

The new Chromacolor system also features Zenith's exciting Color Commander Control

Now one control simultaneously adjusts contrast, color level and brightness in proper balance to provide the most pleasing picture for any light conditions in the room.

Plus:

New Titan Handcrafted Color Chassis with exclusive solid-state Dura-Module for greater dependability.

New RGB Color Circuitry is more sophisticated for higher color fidelity.

Exclusive Chromatic Brain with the first integrated circuit ever used to produce a color TV picture.

Exclusive Gold Video Guard Tuner with 16-carat gold contacts for longer TV life.
